New York Objects Ulster - Sullivan School Reshuffle

$120,000 Increase In Taxes Comes in Districts in Area

New York, Aug. 6 (AP)—Rudolph Halley, president of the City Council, yesterday said a reshuffling of school districts in Ulster and Sullivan counties would add a $120,000 yearly load to the city's bill for taxes on dams in its water supply system.

Halley, in a letter to Corporation Counsel Denis M. Hurley, said there were serious questions concerning the validity of the change in school districts which are being tested in the court by other adversely affected parties. Halley called on the city to take action too.

Says City Does Nothing

He contended that the city has done nothing to protect its interests. He said in this connection that Hurley's predecessor, John P. McGrath, knew of the situation in 1950, "but failed to take any action after receiving a communication from the state commissioner of education requesting him not to protest against the increased tax burden."

Halley asked "whether there are any particular reasons why the city has had to accede to the state's request." He said New York city taxpayers "already are arbitrarily saddled with a large part of school costs in upstate areas to the benefit of upstate taxpayers."

Central District Planned

Halley said the Neversink and Merriman dams formerly were in Union Free School District Number 1 in Sullivan county and Ulster county.

He said that in 1950 the state education commissioner planned a new central school district in Sullivan and Ulster counties including the Merriman dam while the Neversink dam was to remain in the old district. This would result, Halley said, in a new tax structure which would cost the city an additional $120,000 yearly.

Eisenhower Speech Outlines Points For Those in Arms

General Gives His Program for Peace, Prosperity in Nation at VFW Conclave

Los Angeles, Aug. 6 (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower last night gave the nation a soldier's prayer in the form of a 10-point program for a peaceful, prosperous and happy America.

"I have written down these 10 points," he told the 53rd annual encampment of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, "because they represent the outline of a dream of the soldiers with whom I served. And I believe they are attainable.

"Each of us carries his own picture of America when he fights for her. It is the picture of what he is defending."

These are Eisenhower's 10 objectives:

Increase America's strength.
Win a just and lasting peace.
Build a peaceful prosperity.
Make the "promise of equality" a fact.
Strengthen the security and welfare of the people.
Fight high prices and high taxes.
Subject all policy to the test: Is it good for America?
Restore honesty to government.
Insure loyalty to government.
Revive hope of a better life in every American.

Returns to Denver

The 12-minute speech was the general's first since winning the Republican presidential nomination. Shortly after its delivery, he left by plane for Denver.

Political leaders are giving careful scrutiny to his remarks and also to the fact the crowd that heard the speech seemed almost lost in the 103,000-seat Memorial Coliseum.

But even though the speech was labeled "non-political," Eisenhower aides made no attempt to conceal their disappointment at the small crowd. They theorized it might have been better to have tried a smaller arena for the maiden speech; but they had no choice—the VFW had to have the Coliseum for its long drum and bugle corps parade.

Crowd estimates ran from 10,000 by Coliseum officials to 16,000 by police. The event was free to the public.

Speech Is Televised

Some pointed out that attendance was held down by the fact the speech was televised and broadcast throughout southern California, and was delivered at an early hour, conflicting with many persons' dinner.

Wearing a white VFW cap with the insignia of Kansas Post 3279, the general drew a big hand as he stated these "positive objectives of an America closer to our hearts' desire"—restoration of honesty to government, protection of earnings and savings from high prices and taxes, and the winning of lasting peace.

The general received the VFW's Bernard M. Baruch Medal for Distinguished Service, paid high tribute to Baruch, and then gave his program which "soldiers who have fought for America have wanted, want now and can have."

Eisenhower added a political qualification here — "Provided

Furore Grows On Civil Rights

May Force Candidates To Clarify

Eisenhower Statement Is Seemingly Stronger Than That in Party's Platform

Adlai Is Pushed

Opposing Camps Desire He Declare Himself on Issue

Washington, Aug. 6 (AP)—Mounting furore over civil rights may force the two presidential candidates to clarify their views on this controversial issue.

Conflicting interpretations cropped up in the Democratic camp on the stand being taken by that party's nominee, Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson of Illinois.

Eisenhower Statement

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, the GOP nominee, said in a Los Angeles speech last night he favors making the promise of equality "a living fact for every American"—seemingly a stronger statement than any made in his party's platform.

Because some southern states bolted on the civil rights issue in 1948, the heat is on Stevenson from opposing camps in his party to declare himself.

At about the time Gov. Hugh White of Mississippi was coming out of a conference with Stevenson in Springfield, Ill., yesterday to say he thinks the governor will take a moderate attitude on civil rights, Sen. Herbert H. Lehman of New York was sounding a different tune here.

Expects Acceptance

Lehman said in a statement he expects Stevenson and Sen. John Sparkman of Alabama, the Democratic vice presidential nominee, to "accept the full letter and spirit" of the Democratic platform civil rights plank.

That plank called for federal legislation for equal opportunity in employment, security of person and for equal participation in political life.

Stevenson has said he favors state action on the FEPC issue, with the government stepping in only when the states fail to act.

Governor White didn't elaborate on what Stevenson told him, but said he gave the nominee assurance he will have strong support in Mississippi. White opposes FEPC in any form.

On the other hand, Republicans who think the GOP nominee has a chance of breaking into the usually solid south apparently believe that if Eisenhower came out for a compulsory FEPC he would be washing away his chances there.

If the conflicting pressures on the two candidates continue, both soon may feel it necessary to lay down new definitions of their positions.

Six More MIGs Downed in Korea, Three Are Damaged

Captain Gets Two Planes, Tells How Red Aided Kill of One of His Own Fliers

Seoul, Korea, Aug. 6 (AP)—Sharp-shooting U. S. Sabre jet pilots today shot down six Communist MIG 15s and damaged three in the third straight day of jet battles high over North Korea, the U. S. Fifth Air Force reported.

The air force said its three-day bag of the Red fighters totals 11 destroyed and 13 damaged.

Today's seven swirling dogfights got so hot that a Communist pilot helped shoot down one of his own comrades.

The MIG flier was firing at Capt. William J. Ryan, Keeseville, N. Y., who was firing at another MIG ahead. Ryan swerved his plane. The pursuing MIG's 20mm. cannon fire tore into the Russian-made jet ahead, blowing it up and finishing the job Ryan started.

82 Are Spotted

Eighty-two MIG's were spotted Wednesday. Shots were exchanged but Sabre pilots reported they scored hits in only four of the duels.

"We are happy to see them come up. * * * the more that come up the more we can blast down," sail Col. Harrison R. Thyng, commander of the Fourth Wing, as the American flights returned.

His wing was credited with five of the kills today.

Fighter-Bombers swarmed over North Korean targets in bright weather.

By noon today, the Fifth Air Force said, allied planes had destroyed four enemy boxcars and damaged eight, smashed four road bridges and one rail bridge and knocked out seven mortar positions.

Ground Troops Swelter

On the ground, troops sweltered in 100 degree temperature. Fighting was generally light.

The U. S. Eighth Army reported an advance position west of the Pukhan river on the central front exchanged hands three times in 13½ hours of sporadic fighting. At last reports Chinese troops held the position they first won last night but lost in a dawn UN counterattack. A Chinese company then assaulted the post and occupied it by mid-morning.

A U. S. Eighth Army spokesman said only 84 Red soldiers were captured in July, believed to

No Change in Strike Threat Seen Between Union, Rail Officials

New York, Aug. 6 (AP)—The New York Central Railroad and four railroad unions continue negotiations today over long-standing union grievances with "no change" reported in regard to a strike threat.

The two sides met for a second day yesterday. Lawrence W. Horning, vice president of personnel and public relations for the railroad, later made the "no-change" statement.

Union officials declined new comment. But they and company officials on Monday said a strike is "not imminent." There had been reports over the weekend that the unions would call a walkout on the Central's lines east of Buffalo, N. Y.

Grievances and working conditions are the issues in the dispute, which involves the Brotherhoods of Railroad Trainmen, Locomotive Engineers, Locomotive Firemen and Engineman, and Order of Railway Conductors.

Council Receives Resolution To Make Park of Dump Site

Golden Suggests Seal Be Put on Sterling Street Plot, Fill Be Placed

Two proposals seeking additional city recreational facilities were introduced at last night's regular Common Council session.

One, introduced by Alderman James K. Ryan, 10th ward, asked the city to buy the School No. 8 property for a recreation center, and the other by Martin W. Golden, 9th ward, asked development of the Sterling street dump area as a playground.

Alderman-at-large Joseph Kelly named Aldermen Ryan and Hirschell Mayes, first ward, as a committee to confer with Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk on the Ryan proposal at a special meeting to be called on notice prior to the sale of the school property Aug. 28.

Referred to BPW

The Golden resolution was referred to the Board of Public Works. The resolution asked the board "to investigate the possibility of creating and maintaining a city playground" on the former dumping area after it is filled and sealed. If it is found feasible the project be included in next year's budget.

Ryan's resolution called attention to a petition signed by 500 residents of the School No. 8 area, asking that the property be used as a recreation center, and he recalled that the education board had agreed to give the city preference in buying the property. He suggested that the city buy it at the price bid in at the auction.

Three claims filed for property damages allegedly caused last April 5 and June 1 from the overflow of the Tannery Brook during storms on those dates, were referred to Corporation Counsel James G. Connelly.

The claimants are William R. and Helen F. Stall, 200 Henry street, Joseph and Jean Mautner, 196 Henry street, and Hubert A. and Elsie H. Richter, 37 Wall street. Hubert A. Richter is the attorney. No amounts were mentioned.

To Renew Lease

The aldermen voted to renew the lease on the building housing the A. H. Wicks Engine & Truck Co., Inc., 15-17 Wiltwyck avenue, at a rental of $40 a month. The present lease is due to expire Aug. 31.

A resolution designating polling places for the November election was also adopted and the only change shown was the use of facilities in the George Washington School instead of the former Heneph building on Pine street as the 11th ward polling place.

A letter from Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk announcing the appointment of Frank M. Cronk, Jr., 10 Linderman avenue, to the Municipal Civil Service Commission, was read and filed. The appointment is for six years expiring June 1, 1958.

Petition Is Referred

A petition bearing 50 names and a resolution by Third Ward Alderman Edwin Radel asking the repair of Abbey street, were referred to the Board of Public Works.

Asks Restriction

A request by Police Chief Raymond Van Buren for creation of a restricted parking zone area on Clinton avenue for 96 feet from Pearl street northwest on the west curb of Clinton avenue, was referred to the traffic committee.

The traffic committee was also asked to consider resolutions by Sixth Ward Alderman David Schechter asking for a stop sign at Chambers street and Newkirk avenue; that the loading zone at 16-22 Ferry street, be extended to include 24 Ferry street, and that a loading zone sign be placed at 15-19 Hasbrouck avenue.

Australia Announces Some Tax Reductions

Canberra, Australia, Aug. 6 (AP) — Treasurer Sir Arthur Fadden today announced an "incentive budget" for 1952-53 with tax reductions amounting to $122,500,000.

The new budget totals $2,160,000,000.

Engineers Produce 'Saucers' in Lab

Airborne Objects Created to React in Manner of 'Flying' Items

Washington, Aug. 6 (AP) — The Evening Star reported today that army engineers, working with a vacuum bell in a laboratory, have produced atmospheric phenomena which may explain the widespread reports of flying saucers.

In a copyrighted story by W. H. Shippen, the Star said the experiments created airborne objects which "can speed up, hover indefinitely, or disappear and reappear in a flash."

It added:

"The man-made saucers" occasionally fly in formation. Moreover, they are believed to have substance enough to show up on the screen of a radar designed to track them."

What the experimenters did, the Star said, was use the vacuum bell as a tiny working-model of the stratosphere and reproduce "two forces—very low air pressure which is balanced against static electricity in a way to give off light."

"Experimenters in the research and development laboratory at Fort Belvoir (Va.) believe these two are the primary factors responsible for saucer sightings by competent observers," the story added.

A statement issued by the Dispatch unit of the Erie Newspaper Guild said the strike was called to protest "the mass firing last week of mine workers." There was no comment immediately available from management. The paper missed its first edition, due on the streets at 9 a. m., when AFL printers and pressmen refused to cross the picket line set up by CIO Guildsmen.

Delaware Senator Is Under Threat

Source Says Racketeers Would Harm Man for His Charges

Washington, Aug. 6 (AP)—A well-placed source said today Sen. Williams (R.-Del.) has been threatened with harm as a result of his charges of tax evasion by racketeers.

"Don't be asking me about it," Williams told a reporter when asked about the threats. "Nobody will ever get confirmation of such a statement from me."

The informant, who declined to be named, said in an interview he knows the threats were made, but that Williams has refused to treat them seriously.

The threats, the informant said, clearly stemmed from a series of speeches Williams made in the Senate alleging that big time gangsters and gamblers have profited from compromise settlements of their federal taxes. In the speeches Williams named the men involved, and brusquely questioned whether the average citizen

Storms Help New England; Some Relief Reaches South

(By The Associated Press)

Nature—or professional rainmakers — brought crop-saving storms to Connecticut's dust-dry tobacco and vegetable firms Tuesday and scattered showers sprinkled the drouth-seared south.

Less than 18 hours after a firm hired by farmers seeded the clouds with chemicals, electrical storms raced from west to east across Connecticut.

The storms dumped from ½ to 1½ inches of rain over most of the state.

The rain also hit other parts of parched New England, Boston recording 2.33 inches.

It marked the first substantial rainfall in Eastern Massachusetts during the 37-day, multi-million dollar drouth that has withered crops and caused hundreds of forest fires.

More scattered light showers were reported from Virginia to the Carolinas, Georgia and Alabama. Another area of scattered showers was spreading southeastward from Missouri and southern Illinois.

Recent showers in the southern drouth belt have been too light and too scattered to afford widespread relief. In some places, with the bulk of the corn and vegetable crop burned out, they came too late.

The long drouth has destroyed more than a half billion dollars worth of corn, tobacco, cotton and vegetable crops in the south and east. Withered pastures have caused a feed problem for livestock.

Agriculture Department officials have arranged a meeting in Atlanta today and Thursday to discuss means of getting aid to farmers of drouth-stricken southeastern states.

All or parts of 12 states have been designated disaster areas by the government. This enables hard-pressed farmers to get quick government loans for feed or seed for replanting.

Cool weather prevailed in the upper Mississippi valley, northern plains and Great Lakes region. The weather continued warm in the south and in interior regions of the Pacific states.

Thruway Plans Ready for Area

Contract May Be Let Soon for Sawkill-Rt. 28, Erskine Says

Plans for extending the New York State Thruway from the Sawkill area to Route 28 have been completed and forwarded to Albany for approval, A. R. Erskine, engineer of the State Thruway Authority at Poughkeepsie announced today.

If plans are approved a contract is expected to be let at an early date and work will get under way in the fall, he said.

Close to City

Completion of the next strip of road from a point east of Sawkill southward call for "tieing" the super highway into Route 28 at a point within the first half mile of the mountain route west of the city, Erskine said.

No finishing time estimate of this section of the Thruway was given. It was announced earlier this summer, however, that it was the Authority's intention to complete at least a temporary tie-in with Route 28 at the earliest possible date.

Sent to Albany

Erskine said the plans were forwarded to Albany yesterday. If they are approved the state will soon advertise for bids and a contract may be let by early fall.

The building of the thruway interchange plus the spanning of the Esopus creek and two railroads will require intricate construction and will absorb several acres of truck farm land in the area. It was also announced earlier this year that a section of the Esopus creek bed will be relocated when the interchange is built.

General thruway plans call for statewide construction next year.

Two Die in Plane Crash

San Diego, Calif., Aug. 6 (AP)—A B-36 bomber, coming in for a landing after a test flight, caught fire and plunged into the ocean carrying two of its crew members to death. Six others aboard were rescued. One engine on the right side of the giant 10-engine craft broke into flames as the B-36 was about two miles off shore. An explosion, which shook windows of beach residents, followed the fire and the plane crashed into the waves in view of hundreds of persons on the beach. All of the crew were employes of Consolidated Vultee Aircraft Corp., which was modernizing the plane.

Symington Sweep Is Landslide as HST Choice Is Loser

St. Louis, Aug. 6 (AP)—W. Stuart Symington, a business man turned political charmer, piled up a landslide victory today over President Truman's choice for his home state Democratic senatorial nomination.

With 4,220 of the state's 4,726 precincts counted, Symington had 322,015 Taylor 160,881—a massive margin of more than 150,000.

It was the third time since he became President that Truman had intervened in home state politics, and his third defeat. Two years ago his candidate for the Democratic senatorial nomination was defeated in the primary by a scant 4,000 votes. The winner then was Sen. Thomas C. Hennings, Jr., of St. Louis.

Byrnes Asks State To Support Ticket

South Carolina Democrats Advised by Governor to Go Along

Columbia, S. C., Aug. 6 (AP)—Gov. James F. Byrnes today advised South Carolina Democrats to support the national Democratic Stevenson-Sparkman presidential ticket.

Byrnes, often at odds with the Truman administration, thus joined the state's other party leaders in support of the national ticket. His recommendation came at the party's state convention which was reconvened today after being in recess since April while waiting to learn the national party's stand on civil rights.

It was at Byrnes' suggestion that the state party, which bolted the national party for the States Rights Democratic ticket in 1948, adopted this wait-and-see attitude. With Byrnes' support, there seemed to be little doubt that the convention would go down the line for Stevenson and Sparkman. The South Carolina action may also influence other southern states.

Suggests Pledged Electors

In a report on the national convention which he attended as chairman of the South Carolina delegation, Byrnes noted that the state party was free to support the Republican Eisenhower-Nixon ticket.

Car Thefts Soar

95-Million Total Reached in 1951, Hoover Report Says

Washington, Aug. 6 (AP)—Auto thefts jumped into a 95 million dollar racket last year, FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover said today in announcing plans for a series of regional conferences to deal with the problem.

Hoover said that starting in the early fall, the FBI will convene such conferences in all parts of the country, in conjunction with local law enforcement agencies, state motor bureau representatives and others.

He said an analysis of reports received from local police in 381 communities showed car thefts in large cities rose 21.2 per cent and in rural areas 15.1 per cent during 1951. Recoveries ranged above 90 per cent, but losses in damage to cars and inconvenience to owners remained high.

Hoover suggested the car-owner could help curb thefts through more care in locking cars, avoiding dark-street parking, and not leaving luggage or other valuables on display in parked cars.

New York Objects Ulster - Sullivan School Reshuffle

$120,000 Increase In Taxes Comes in Districts in Area

New York, Aug. 6 (AP)—Rudolph Halley, president of the City Council, yesterday said a reshuffling of school districts in Ulster and Sullivan counties would add a $120,000 yearly load to the city's bill for taxes on dams in its water supply system.

Halley, in a letter to Corporation Counsel Denis M. Hurley, said there were serious questions concerning the validity of the change in school districts which are being tested in the court by other adversely affected parties. Halley called on the city to take action too.

Says City Does Nothing

He contended that the city has done nothing to protect its interests. He said in this connection that Hurley's predecessor, John P. McGrath, knew of the situation in 1950, "but failed to take any action after receiving a communication from the state commissioner of education requesting him not to protest against the increased tax burden."

Halley asked "whether there are any particular reasons why the city has had to accede to the state's request." He said New York city taxpayers "already are arbitrarily saddled with a large part of school costs in upstate areas to the benefit of upstate taxpayers."

Central District Planned

Halley said the Neversink and Merriman dams formerly were in Union Free School District Number 1 in Sullivan county and Ulster county.

He said that in 1950 the state education commissioner planned a new central school district in Sullivan and Ulster counties including the Merriman dam while the Neversink dam was to remain in the old district. This would result, Halley said, in a new tax structure which would cost the city an additional $120,000 yearly.

Delaware Senator Is Under Threat

Source Says Racketeers Would Harm Man for His Charges

Washington, Aug. 6 (AP)—A well-placed source said today Sen. Williams (R.-Del.) has been threatened with harm as a result of his charges of tax evasion by racketeers.

"Don't be asking me about it," Williams told a reporter when asked about the threats. "Nobody will ever get confirmation of such a statement from me."

The informant, who declined to be named, said in an interview he knows the threats were made, but that Williams has refused to treat them seriously.

The threats, the informant said, clearly stemmed from a series of speeches Williams made in the Senate alleging that big time gangsters and gamblers have profited from compromise settlements of their federal taxes. In the speeches Williams named the men involved, and brusquely questioned whether the average citizen

General Gives His Program for Peace, Prosperity in Nation at VFW Conclave

Los Angeles, Aug. 6 (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower last night gave the nation a soldier's prayer in the form of a 10-point program for a peaceful, prosperous and happy America.

"I have written down these 10 points," he told the 53rd annual encampment of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, "because they represent the outline of a dream of the soldiers with whom I served. And I believe they are attainable.

"Each of us carries his own picture of America when he fights for her. It is the picture of what he is defending."

These are Eisenhower's 10 objectives:

Increase America's strength.
Win a just and lasting peace.
Build a peaceful prosperity.
Make the "promise of equality" a fact.
Strengthen the security and welfare of the people.
Fight high prices and high taxes.
Subject all policy to the test: Is it good for America?
Restore honesty to government.
Insure loyalty to government.

Returns to Denver

The 12-minute speech was the general's first since winning the Republican presidential nomination. Shortly after its delivery, he left by plane for Denver.

Political leaders are giving careful scrutiny to his remarks and also to the fact the crowd that heard the speech seemed almost lost in the 103,000-seat Memorial Coliseum.

But even though the speech was labeled "non-political," Eisenhower aides made no attempt to conceal their disappointment at the small crowd. They theorized it might have been better to have tried a smaller arena for the maiden speech; but they had no choice—the VFW had to have the Coliseum for its long drum and bugle corps parade.

Crowd estimates ran from 10,000 by Coliseum officials to 16,000 by police. The event was free to the public.

Speech Is Televised

Some pointed out that attendance was held down by the fact the speech was televised and broadcast throughout southern California, and was delivered at an early hour, conflicting with many persons' dinner.

Wearing a white VFW cap with the insignia of Kansas Post 3279, the general drew a big hand as he stated these "positive objectives of an America closer to our hearts' desire"—restoration of honesty to government, protection of earnings and savings from high prices and taxes, and the winning of lasting peace.

The general received the VFW's Bernard M. Baruch Medal for Distinguished Service, paid high tribute to Baruch, and then gave his program which "soldiers who have fought for America have wanted, want now and can have."

Eisenhower added a political qualification here — "Provided

Storms Help New England; Some Relief Reaches South

(By The Associated Press)

Nature—or professional rainmakers — brought crop-saving storms to Connecticut's dust-dry tobacco and vegetable firms Tuesday and scattered showers sprinkled the drouth-seared south.

Less than 18 hours after a firm hired by farmers seeded the clouds with chemicals, electrical storms raced from west to east across Connecticut.

The storms dumped from ½ to 1½ inches of rain over most of the state.

The rain also hit other parts of parched New England, Boston recording 2.33 inches.

It marked the first substantial rainfall in Eastern Massachusetts during the 37-day, multi-million dollar drouth that has withered crops and caused hundreds of forest fires.

More scattered light showers were reported from Virginia to the Carolinas, Georgia and Alabama. Another area of scattered showers was spreading southeastward from Missouri and southern Illinois.

Recent showers in the southern drouth belt have been too light and too scattered to afford widespread relief. In some places, with the bulk of the corn and vegetable crop burned out, they came too late.

The long drouth has destroyed more than a half billion dollars worth of corn, tobacco, cotton and vegetable crops in the south and east. Withered pastures have caused a feed problem for livestock.

Agriculture Department officials have arranged a meeting in Atlanta today and Thursday to discuss means of getting aid to farmers of drouth-stricken southeastern states.

All or parts of 12 states have been designated disaster areas by the government. This enables hard-pressed farmers to get quick government loans for feed or seed for replanting.

Cool weather prevailed in the upper Mississippi valley, northern plains and Great Lakes region. The weather continued warm in the south and in interior regions of the Pacific states.

Thruway Plans Ready for Area

Contract May Be Let Soon for Sawkill-Rt. 28, Erskine Says

Plans for extending the New York State Thruway from the Sawkill area to Route 28 have been completed and forwarded to Albany for approval, A. R. Erskine, engineer of the State Thruway Authority at Poughkeepsie announced today.

If plans are approved a contract is expected to be let at an early date and work will get under way in the fall, he said.

Close to City

Completion of the next strip of road from a point east of Sawkill southward call for "tieing" the super highway into Route 28 at a point within the first half mile of the mountain route west of the city, Erskine said.

No finishing time estimate of this section of the Thruway was given. It was announced earlier this summer, however, that it was the Authority's intention to complete at least a temporary tie-in with Route 28 at the earliest possible date.

Sent to Albany

Erskine said the plans were forwarded to Albany yesterday. If they are approved the state will soon advertise for bids and a contract may be let by early fall.

The building of the thruway interchange plus the spanning of the Esopus creek and two railroads will require intricate construction and will absorb several acres of truck farm land in the area. It was also announced earlier this year that a section of the Esopus creek bed will be relocated when the interchange is built.

General thruway plans call for statewide construction next year.

Two Die in Plane Crash

San Diego, Calif., Aug. 6 (AP)—A B-36 bomber, coming in for a landing after a test flight, caught fire and plunged into the ocean carrying two of its crew members to death. Six others aboard were rescued. One engine on the right side of the giant 10-engine craft broke into flames as the B-36 was about two miles off shore. An explosion, which shook windows of beach residents, followed the fire and the plane crashed into the waves in view of hundreds of persons on the beach. All of the crew were employes of Consolidated Vultee Aircraft Corp., which was modernizing the plane.

Symington Sweep Is Landslide as HST Choice Is Loser

St. Louis, Aug. 6 (AP)—W. Stuart Symington, a business man turned political charmer, piled up a landslide victory today over President Truman's choice for his home state Democratic senatorial nomination.

With 4,220 of the state's 4,726 precincts counted, Symington had 322,015 Taylor 160,881—a massive margin of more than 150,000.

It was the third time since he became President that Truman had intervened in home state politics, and his third defeat. Two years ago his candidate for the Democratic senatorial nomination was defeated in the primary by a scant 4,000 votes. The winner then was Sen. Thomas C. Hennings, Jr., of St. Louis.

Byrnes Asks State To Support Ticket

Columbia, S. C., Aug. 6 (AP)—Gov. James F. Byrnes today advised South Carolina Democrats to support the national Democratic Stevenson-Sparkman presidential ticket.

Byrnes, often at odds with the Truman administration, thus joined the state's other party leaders in support of the national ticket. His recommendation came at the party's state convention which was reconvened today after being in recess since April while waiting to learn the national party's stand on civil rights.

It was at Byrnes' suggestion that the state party, which bolted the national party for the States Rights Democratic ticket in 1948, adopted this wait-and-see attitude. With Byrnes' support, there seemed to be little doubt that the convention would go down the line for Stevenson and Sparkman. The South Carolina action may also influence other southern states.

Suggests Pledged Electors

In a report on the national convention which he attended as chairman of the South Carolina delegation, Byrnes noted that the state party was free to support the Republican Eisenhower-Nixon ticket.

"But," he declared, "I think this

May Force Candidates To Clarify

Adlai Is Pushed

Opposing Camps Desire He Declare Himself on Issue

Washington, Aug. 6 (AP)—Mounting furore over civil rights may force the two presidential candidates to clarify their views on this controversial issue.

Conflicting interpretations cropped up in the Democratic camp on the stand being taken by that party's nominee, Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson of Illinois.

Eisenhower Statement

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, the GOP nominee, said in a Los Angeles speech last night he favors making the promise of equality "a living fact for every American"—seemingly a stronger statement than any made in his party's platform.

Because some southern states bolted on the civil rights issue in 1948, the heat is on Stevenson from opposing camps in his party to declare himself.

At about the time Gov. Hugh White of Mississippi was coming out of a conference with Stevenson in Springfield, Ill., yesterday to say he thinks the governor will take a moderate attitude on civil rights, Sen. Herbert H. Lehman of New York was sounding a different tune here.

Expects Acceptance

Lehman said in a statement he expects Stevenson and Sen. John Sparkman of Alabama, the Democratic vice presidential nominee, to "accept the full letter and spirit" of the Democratic platform civil rights plank.

That plank called for federal legislation for equal opportunity in employment, security of person and for equal participation in political life.

Stevenson has said he favors state action on the FEPC issue, with the government stepping in only when the states fail to act.

Governor White didn't elaborate on what Stevenson told him, but said he gave the nominee assurance he will have strong support in Mississippi. White opposes FEPC in any form.

On the other hand, Republicans who think the GOP nominee has a chance of breaking into the usually solid south apparently believe that if Eisenhower came out for a compulsory FEPC he would be washing away his chances there.

If the conflicting pressures on the two candidates continue, both soon may feel it necessary to lay down new definitions of their positions.

Car Thefts Soar

95-Million Total Reached in 1951, Hoover Report Says

Washington, Aug. 6 (AP)—Auto thefts jumped into a 95 million dollar racket last year, FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover said today in announcing plans for a series of regional conferences to deal with the problem.

Hoover said that starting in the early fall, the FBI will convene such conferences in all parts of the country, in conjunction with local law enforcement agencies, state motor bureau representatives and others.

He said an analysis of reports received from local police in 381 communities showed car thefts in large cities rose 21.2 per cent and in rural areas 15.1 per cent during 1951. Recoveries ranged above 90 per cent, but losses in damage to cars and inconvenience to owners remained high.

Hoover suggested the car-owner could help curb thefts through more care in locking cars, avoiding dark-street parking, and not leaving luggage or other valuables on display in parked cars.

Two Kentuckians Killed

Atlanta, Aug. 6 (AP)—Two Kentucky night club executives carrying more than $16,000 in cash were burned to death in a private plane that crashed and burst into flames yesterday. Police identified the victims as James H. Brink, operator of the Lookout House Supper Club near Covington, Ky., and Charles Drahmann, the club's manager. Their single-engine plane overshot a runway in trying to land at the Fulton County (Atlanta) Airport. Charles Lester, a Covington attorney who flew to Atlanta last night, told reporters the two men were on their way to Miami to close a real estate deal.

Costello Quizzed At Ballston Spa

Ballston Spa, N. Y., Aug. 6 (AP)—Underworld kingpin Frank Costello was questioned by state investigators for an hour today about Saratoga gambling.

The 61-year-old gambler declined to reveal what course the questions had taken or how he had responded.

He appeared under subpoena before the special grand jury probing gambling and any political tie-ups in the horse-racing center of Saratoga Springs and the rest of Saratoga county.

The jury has been looking into operations at Arrowhead Inn, former Saratoga nightspot.

A witness before the U. S. Senate's Kefauver Crime Investigating Committee testified that Costello held an interest in Arrowhead, through another party.

He also has been linked to Piping Rock, another well-known Saratoga nightspot now closed.

She mainly devoted herself to her family, but took an active interest in charity work directed by her younger sister, Miss Anne Morgan, who died last January.

Truck Explodes, Injures 9 Persons

Mahanoy City, Pa., Aug. 6 (AP)—A dynamite-laden truck blew up in the tiny community of Craigs near here yesterday, ravaging the entire town and injuring nine persons.

The deafening explosion, felt for miles around, shattered store windows here, four miles from the blast.

Ten homes in Craigs—the entire town—were damaged. The 50 residents of the hamlet were thrown into complete confusion.

The truck driver, Frank Barnhardt, 23, of West Pittston, Pa., was running from the truck when the blast bowled him over. He was injured by the concussion.

The truck was blown to bits. Witnesses said the truck caught fire and Barnhardt leaped from his cab and tried to extinguish the flames. Then he dashed away as the fire spread.

The injured were treated on the scene, then transferred to nearby hospitals.

Eisenhower Speech

each of us does his civic duty all the way from the wards and precincts."

The Eisenhower camp viewed the program as a likely blueprint for the general's forthcoming campaign, actually not slated to get under way officially until Sept. 1.

Before returning to Denver, the general conferred briefly with his running mate, Sen. Richard M. Nixon, GOP vice presidential nominee; Gov. Earl Warren, Sen. William F. Knowland, Paul G. Hoffman and some 15 Republican candidates for Congress.

Trumanite . . .

purging Democratic Congressman Roger C. Slaughter of the Fifth District in Kansas City in the primary. But Enos Axtell, the man who had the President's support, was defeated in the general election by a Republican.

The bulk of Symington's victory was fashioned in St. Louis, but even the President's home precinct in Independence also voted for the former administration trouble shooter—114 to 20.

The Democratic nominee, 51 and personable, formerly was secretary of the air force, head of the National Security Resources Board and finally cleanup man for the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

Kem to Be Opponent

His opponent in November will be Republican incumbent James P. Kem of Kansas City, a bitter foe of administration foreign and domestic policies. Kem had only token opposition.

Next to the size of Symington's victory, the primary's big surprise was the way Sheriff Thomas F. Callahan's bid for statewide power failed. His machine was all but wrecked when it ran headon into an uprising of independent voters in St. Louis. Callanan even lost his own bid for renomination as sheriff.

His program to achieve statewide power called for Rep. Phil J. Welch of St. Joseph to win the Democratic nomination for governor. The governor is an important man to a Missouri political machine because he controls the big city police and election boards.

Donnelly Is Winner

But Welch went down to defeat by a margin only slightly less decisive than in the Senate race. Former Gov. Phil M. Donnelly of Lebanon downed him in the voting surge.

Donnelly served as governor from 1945-49, then had to sit out one term because a Missouri governor cannot succeed himself. His supporters in yesterday's primary included James M. Pendergast, head of the Kansas City faction to which the President belongs.

The Republican nomination went to state Rep. Howard Elliott.

All incumbent congressmen who were seeking renomination appeared safe.

"If today were Election Day, I would vote for Stevenson and Sparkman," the former secretary of state said, "not because they are labeled Democrats, but because of their personal qualifications and their records in public office."

But Byrnes said he wanted to hear views of both Stevenson and Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, Republican candidate, before finally making up his mind about his own vote.

Two Are Killed, Man, Wife Hurt

New York, Aug. 6 (AP)—A man wielding a five-inch dagger slashed a husband and wife early today when they refused to produce their daughter at his command, then killed two Negro neighbors who tried to block his escape.

A suspect, identified as Ralph Mounier, 19, was booked on a homicide charge.

The man pounded on the door of John and Georgiana Rosada, the Bronx, about 4:30 a. m., and demanded that they produce their daughter, Gloria, 19.

When they tried to slam the door in his face, he slashed them with a knife and fled down the stairs.

The Negroes—Harrison Bailey, 53, a Grand Central station porter and father of 10 children, and Ambus Love, 52, father of six—were sitting on a bench outside to escape the intense heat of their tenements. They tried to stop the man and were knifed to death.

Mrs. Rosado, 38, was reported in serious condition at Lincoln Hospital.

Detectives found the man collapsed and shouting in a yard three blocks from the scene. He carried a dagger and his clothes were bloodstained.

Prohibited Coffee

At one time, Mohammedans proclaimed that coffee was an intoxicating beverage and therefore was prohibited by the Koran, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

Council Receives

12th ward asked that a no-parking sign be placed in front of 447 Washington avenue. Alderman Golden asked for a no parking zone of 50 feet on Orchard street westward from Broadway on the south side, that a loading zone on West O'Reilly street near Broadway also be made a no parking area, and that a 10-mile-an-hour speed zone be established on West Chester street from Broadway to the crest of the hill.

Repair Is Asked

Referred to the BPW was a resolution by Alderman Joseph Wenzel, fourth ward, asking for the repair of Hasbrouck avenue from Delaware avenue to Murray street; Stuyvesant street from Hasbrouck avenue to Maple street, and Maple street from Murray to DuBois street.

Alderman Thomas Coughlin, seventh ward, asked the public works department to repair holes on Hudson street, on Abeel street, from the bridge entrance to Post street and those on Post street.

Coughlin also asked that the catch basin at Hudson and Spruce streets and another on Spruce street be cleaned. These, he said, had not been cleaned in two years.

Edwin Radel, third ward, said Farrelly street was "in deplorable condition" and he asked its repair at the earliest possible time.

Two Kentuckians Killed

Atlanta, Aug. 6 (AP)—Two Kentucky night club executives carrying more than $16,000 in cash were burned to death in a private plane that crashed and burst into flames yesterday. Police identified the victims as James H. Brink, operator of the Lookout House Supper Club near Covington, Ky., and Charles Drahmann, the club's manager. Their single-engine plane overshot a runway in trying to land at the Fulton County (Atlanta) Airport. Charles Lester, a Covington attorney who flew to Atlanta last night, told reporters the two men were on their way to Miami to close a real estate deal.

Costello Quizzed At Ballston Spa

Ballston Spa, N. Y., Aug. 6 (AP)—Underworld kingpin Frank Costello was questioned by state investigators for an hour today about Saratoga gambling.

The 61-year-old gambler declined to reveal what course the questions had taken or how he had responded.

He appeared under subpoena before the special grand jury probing gambling and any political tie-ups in the horse-racing center of Saratoga Springs and the rest of Saratoga county.

The jury has been looking into operations at Arrowhead Inn, former Saratoga nightspot.

A witness before the U. S. Senate's Kefauver Crime Investigating Committee testified that Costello held an interest in Arrowhead, through another party.

He also has been linked to Piping Rock, another well-known Saratoga nightspot now closed.

Mrs. Hamilton Dies

New York, Aug. 6 (AP)—Mrs. Juliette Pierpont Hamilton, 82, last surviving child of financier J. Pierpont Morgan, Sr., died yesterday. Mrs. Hamilton, who was divorced from William Pierson Hamilton in 1924, divided her time between a city apartment (1 Sutton Place South) and a country home at Tuxedo Park. She mainly devoted herself to her family, but took an active interest in charity work directed by her younger sister, Miss Anne Morgan, who died last January.

Infant Drowns

Houston, Aug. 6 (AP)—Mrs. Frank Guzjardo bathed her 11-months-old son, drained the tub and left him for a moment to play. His sister, Mary, 2, wanted to play, too. Officers said she turned on the faucet and played in the water with tissue paper. That stopped the drain. The horrified mother found the tub overflowing. Frank, Jr., was submerged lifeless. Mary stood by frightened.

Tries to Form Cabinet

The Hague, The Netherlands, Aug. 6 (AP)—Lodewijk A. Donker, parliamentary leader of the Dutch Labor party, consulted leading politicians today in an attempt to form a cabinet. The country has had only a caretaker government for six weeks. Queen Juliana asked Donker to take over the job yesterday after Dr. Louis J. M. Deel of the Catholic People's party gave up his attempts.

Campaign strategy for winning the farm vote in the coming election was the main topic at a conference in Illinois capital city of Springfield between Gov. MAYBE SAUCER RASH IS CURED

Now the Air Force says that flying saucers are as non-existent as those 14-carat gold ones on your kitchen shelf. All right, Air Force, but did you have to keep things up in the air so long?

The latest saucer rash soared to some sort of a dizzy record over Washington a few days ago. First the Air Force wouldn't even send up interceptor planes to investigate "unidentified objects" flying over the capital.

A week later the Air Defense Command ordered planes to take off instantly to chase saucers, spoons, teacups, or any other unidentified eating utensils sighted flying over the country, anywhere, any time.

So the Civil Aeronautics Administration got on its horse—the flying Pegasus, of course—and right away saw some things in the sky that needed chasing.

But it took more than two hours for the Air Force to get interceptor planes up. The flyboys said this reflected no lack of alertness on their part, only confusion. O.K.

A couple of days later, Civil Aeronautics Administration radar observers, which had busily been sighting everything put pie in the Washington sky, cooled off suddenly and completely.

The CAA traffic control center spotted things in the air for six hours but didn't even tell the Air Force. "We were too busy with other things," was the surprising explanation. "And besides those objects aren't hurting anybody."

And the Air Force didn't seem to mind, despite the fact that only a couple of days before jet pilots had been ordered to take to the sky immediately to chase everything that couldn't be identified.

By this time, the public, already a little unhinged by the heat and two political conventions, was about ready for the trembly ward.

Various official and unofficial explanations were forthcoming in bewildering variety. The things were everything from trucks to the product of war-jumpy nerves.

So the Air Force held a press conference to allay things. It said it was getting some scientists in to investigate the matter and meantime there wasn't anything to worry about.

The consensus on the latest saucer business was that the hot, humid weather had produced some reflections in the sky which looked likes solid objects.

So let's hope the saucer silliness is finished and done with. If, of course, it really is silliness.

GIFT FROM DEWEY

A friendly gesture by Governor Thomas E. Dewey of New York may win friends for the United States in Indo-China. Dewey, on his return from his trip through Asia, sent 600 small-mouth bass fingerlings to Emperor Bao Dai of Vietnam, Indo-China. The emperor, a fisherman, told Dewey, when the Governor visited him, that his mouth watered at the thought of well-cooked bass but the fish could not be found in his country.

These are perilous times and the United States needs all the friends it can get. Indo-China is a hot spot in the cold war and it is well for the United States to have influential friends in that area. Any fisherman will tell you that there is no better way to make a man your friend than to provide him with a chance at some fine fishing. Any one fond of good eating will aver that a succulent dish of bass, golden brown and hot from the frying pan, is a dish fit for a king or fit to make an emperor a friend.

EXCESSIVE SPEED

The faster you go, the harder you hit, warns the National Safety Council in its statistical yearbook.

Excessive speed was a factor in 35 per cent of the nation's 37,300 motor vehicle deaths last year. Twenty-eight per cent of the drivers involved in these accidents were reported violating some speed regulation. Fourteen per cent exceeded the stated speed limit, five per cent exceeded safe speeds although traveling under the state limit and nine per cent violated safe speeds in areas where there was no state limit.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

THE AGE OF IRRESPONSIBILITY

In his book on the Far East, Governor Thomas E. Dewey interlopes an issue, during his description of his visit to Japan. The particular paragraphs are not germane to the visit but form an obiter dictum on the general subject of official irresponsibility.

Two theories move Dewey to this discussion:

1. That government officials should speak to and confer only with each other and that their conversations and acts must never be placed before the prying eyes of the American people who employ anl pay them;

2. That men do err and should not be exposed as having erred, no matter how costly the error may be in national wealth or honor or even in human life.

To prove his point, Tom Dewey recites the following parable:

"On many other occasions, old, confidential reports have been dragged out and exposed to public inspection. The insecurity resulting from such exposure of confidential reports has swept through our whole foreign service. Men who entered the service under Wilson, Harding, Coolidge, and Hoover, as well as more recent appointees, all expressed the same opinion: 'If we are going to be held up to public scorn for our judgments 10 or 15 years after they were made, in the light of changing events, we simply will not stick our necks out. We are willing to file our honest opinions and truthful reports and take our chances with changing administrations of the State Department if our opinions seem wrong in the light of later events; but if everything we say in the exercise of honest judgment is going to be held up to hostile criticism as a result of personal pique on the part of individual senators or congressmen or as a result of conditions which have long since changed, we simply won't take the chance.'"

His conclusion is:

". . . It will be a long time before the United States again gets the full benefit of the advice and opinion of the really able men in the career service, who will need much reassurance before they resume the filing of reports which reflect their honest opinions on political trends abroad, social and economic conditions, and the impact made by visiting firemen."

In a word, if 120,000 Americans are casualties because some one erred in judgment or lacked knowledge and acted upon false opinions and reached unreasonable conclusions, it is none of the business of the American people or their members of Congress who may be engaged in investigating the causes of a disaster.

Tom Dewey has never permitted citizens who are attending to their own business the privacy he seeks for officials who are attending to the people's business. As a prosecuting attorney and as governor, he has always employed every process of law and power to get a fact he needed. It is therefore not a little astonishing that he should hold that the people's business is the private concern of those hired to handle it.

The fundamental question here is responsibility. A public official is not hired to do the best he can, which may not be good enough. He is not hired because he is infallible. He is hired to do a particular job and to be responsible to his employers, the taxpayers. Statutes of limitation run in the law; they do not exist in history. The careers of Constantine (288-337), of Genghis Khan (1162-1227), of Napoleon (1769-1821), of Abraham Lincoln (1809-1865), of Franklin D. Roosevelt and Adolf Hitler are constantly being reappraised as more data becomes available. Some day, an historian might even apply himself to Tom Dewey.

The grist of this mill is documents. The archives of many governments and even individuals do not become available for decades or even centuries. Sometimes they disappear altogether or are wilfully destroyed to prevent exposure. History is particularly unkind to arrogant egotists whose foibles kill off innocent human beings or destroy countries. We are just fully beginning to realize how many crazy men reached positions of rulership and the mischief they have done. Perhaps some day, a psychiatrist will write a history of the genus politician through the centuries.

The documents in the State Department and in the Pentagon cost the American taxpayer billions of dollars and they must in time be made available no matter who comes out of it looking like an idiot.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

NUTRITIONAL DISEASES OF THE MOUTH

One of the significant statements of Dr. Osler was that it is about the mouth that most ailments get their start. Although he had in mind the serious ailments — pneumonia, bronchopneumonia, heart and rheumatic diseases—there are some less serious ailments about the mouth that cause misery and embarrasment. I have in mind the mouth ailments due to eating foods that upset the stomach and intestines and show these upsetments in and about the mouth. As these ailments are caused by certain foods, they are called nutritional ailments.

In Reviews of Gastroenterology (stomach and intestines), Dr. H. D. Fein states that the acuteness of these mouth ailments determines the speed with which they go away under proper treatment. When the ailment is slow in appearing, the individual has likely been eating the foods causing it for a long time and it is, therefore, a "chronic" ailment.

Since the advent of the vitamins, it has been learned that lack of certain vitamins is responsible for certain definite mouth ailments, but Dr. Fein points out that lack of minerals and other food factors are responsible for some of the mouth ailments.

Nutritional diseases are classified according to the site or spot where they occur. Diseases of the gums are acute (scurvy) or chronic gingivitis. Scurvy is a result of three to 12 months' deficiency of ascorbic acid—vitamin C. Severe swelling of gums and loosening of teeth occurs early. Vitamin C in adequate amounts results in definite improvement in two or three days and clearing in one or two weeks. Chronic gingivitis (inflamed gums) is fairly common as contrasted to scurvy and is characterized by redness, swelling, tenderness and bleeding of the gums. This ailment starts about the gum margins. A diet rich in vitamin C—fresh raw fruits, especially citrus fruits, green vegetables, tomatoes and tomato juice—seems to prevent gingivitis. Ailments of the tongue are usually caused by a lack of vitamin B complex and show changes in color and structure. A scarlet tongue is seen in pellagra and sprue (excess fat in stools). The tip and edges of the tongue are first affected and the redness is accompanied by soreness and swelling. Ulceration may occur but dramatic improvement occurs in pellagra in 24 hours after vitamin B12 or folic acid has been given. A beefy red tongue represents a lack of niacin or some other B-complex vitamin. When sores occur in corners of mouth it is also caused by lack of vitamin B (riboflavin).

By DREW PEARSON

Washington—I have made a firm resolve not to eat any more pink peppermints—at least not in the entrance of the Mayflower dining room.

For, according to the testimony in the case of United States vs. Charles Patrick Clark, had I not dallied to pick up a mint, I would not have been punched in the lobby of the Mayflower by the lobbyist for Franco Spain.

Let me state here and now that I should have known better than to pick up a mint. Some years ago Bob Allen and I wrote a book in which one chapter was entitled "Pink Peppermints and Protocol," in which we had some caustic things to say about the gentlemen of the State Department. And if I was not smart enough to follow the advice I gave others about pink peppermints, then I suppose I deserved to be punched in the lobby, in the neck, or anywhere else.

Paradoxically, it was for defending the State Department, in a sense, that I got punched.

So far I have refrained from commenting on a matter that was before the court. But now that a jury has given its verdict, perhaps I may be forgiven for making a few observations on how it feels to get punched in the lobby.

Sensation of a Circus Freak

Quite frankly, it makes you feel like a fool. You stand there kind of groggy. Scores of people rush to the doors of the dining room to see what's happening. A man in front of you is shouting, gesticulating, jumping up and down. Other people try to calm him down.

You stand there, feeling foolish, not knowing what to do. If you rush in and tangle with him, you make it worse. If you don't rush in, the public will probably think you're scared. The only thing you definitely decide is that the next time anyone stops you in the Mayflower, you'll get your arm up first.

All this takes a matter of seconds, though it seems like hours. You keep on feeling like a freak before a circus crowd, until finally, the lobbyist for Franco, still muttering, is led away by the hotel detective.

That's how it feels to be punched in the lobby, and that's why I've resolved to give up peppermints. Because, according to court testimony, if I hadn't dropped behind my friends to pick up a mint, Lobbyist Clark would not have come bounding out of a telephone booth to precipitate l'affaire Mayflower.

Lobbying U. S. Policy

Now that I can comment on the matter with propriety, I would like to make one point I was not able to get across to the jury because Judge Tom Scalley quite rightly ruled that my views and my columns were not relevant.

That point is that, in writing about Spain, I was not personally interested in Lobbyist Clark. I was calling attention to a principle. Clark draws $75,000 a year from Franco to try to get money from the U. S. Government, and obviously he tried to earn his pay. He even gets a bonus when he persuades Congress to grant more money for Spain.

What I was chiefly writing about was not Clark but these two important principles:

Members of Congress who were used by Clark to secure cash for Franco and who in at least one case received money from Clark after making speeches in Congress urging support of Franco. When a congressman votes his conscience it's one thing. When he prostitutes his vote in return for money it's something the public has a right to know about.

The fact that U. S. foreign policy was being directed by a paid lobbyist. Foreign policy is supposed to be directed by the President and the State Department, and in the case of Spain both of them had taken a vigorous stand against money to Franco. Yet Congress, thanks in part to a skillful lobbyist, overrode the wishes of the executive and voted $162,500,000 anyhow.

When this happens, the question of how and why it happened is important news which the taxpayers who must pay that money are entitled to know about.

And it's a newspaperman's duty to write that news regardless of the physical risks or consequences.

Pearson Confesses

This kind of news which involves money passed between a lobbyist and a congressman is extremely difficult to write. It takes weeks and months of work. It also involves the risk of libel suits. Even then you can sometimes be wrong. In the Clark case, I am certain I was not wrong. Clark, incidentally, was given three opportunities to explain his position before anything was written; while the two congressmen were also given an opportunity.

Sometimes, despite careful checking, however, any newspaperman makes mistakes, and when this happens, I try to correct them. Recently, for instance, I reported that, at the Democratic convention in Chicago, Gov. John Battle of Virginia was privately critical of Democratic candidates and said he was for Eisenhower. Governor Battle now states that he did not say he was for Eisenhower and did not criticize the Democratic candidates. I am delighted to make his position clear.

I also find that I erred in stating that Ray Sprigle of the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette received his information on Justice Black's former membership in the Ku Klux Klan from Frank Prince, a private detective who had worked for Republic Steel. I am now informed by Herbert Bayard Swope, who, as editor of the old New York World, first exposed the Klan, that he gave this information to Sprigle, and I am glad to set this straight.

However, my statement that the attacks on Justice Black were unfair still stands.

But to get back to l'affaire Charles Patrick Clark and the lobby of the Mayflower. Though it may be a good idea to send aid to the Spanish people, this would be decided by our properly constituted authorities—not a paid lobbyist. For, when it's put across by a $75,000 lobbyist for the dictator who gets a $162,500,000 loan from Congress in return, then the executive has lost its bargaining power in securing Spanish air and naval bases.

For obviously the State Department can't bargain for bases when Franco knows he can go over the State Department's head through his lobbyist and his friends in Washington and get what he wants anyway.

That's the main reason why the Spanish base negotiations have been bogged down ever since April.

Stevenson's Use of Phrases Might Not Mean What They Seem to Say at First Glance

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Aug. 6—Governor Stevenson is such a skillful user of phrases that one has to read them twice to make sure whether the Democratic nominee is making a serious blunder or merely steering cautiously among the political shoals.

Thus, on first glance, it may look as if the governor has made a grave mistake in saying that "what the nation wants is a refreshing—and not any sharp alteration—of the policies which have meant strength and progress for two decades."

The governor's refusal to make any "sharp alteration," could mean that he is not recognizing the nation-wide sentiment in favor of "change" and is planning to continue the New Deal and the Fair Deal policies of the last 20 years.

But, on the other hand, this could be a mere euphemism—the use of phrases to say pleasantly what would be unpleasant for Mr. Truman and his associates to hear. The governor's sentence above, moreover, could be construed to mean that he intends no "sharp alteration" only in those policies "which have meant strength and progress for two decades."

This could refer to only certain policies yet to be identified and it might mean sharp alteration or even abandonment of those policies which the nominee may, during the course of the campaign, feel compelled virtually to repudiate. Incidentally, no policy ever launched by the New Deal or the Fair Deal has been characterized by its sponsors as anything else but a measure of "strength and progress."

The eyes of millions of independent voters are on Governor Stevenson to see how much Trumanism he will reject and how much he will accept. His tactics thus far have been plainly to avoid a complete commitment. In his speech opening the Democratic National Convention the governor knew he had to make reference at least once to the Roosevelt and Truman administrations, so he did it with selectivity and deftness as follows:

". . . We will never apologize for our leadership of the great events of this critical century all the way from Woodrow Wilson to Harry Truman."

That takes in a long range in world affairs, but at the same time it rather limits his approval to "the great events of this critical century" and seems to ignore the domestic issues about which there has been so much vehement controversy in the last 20 years.

As the campaign develops, the Democratic nominee will have to amplify his position. He will be asked questions from one end of the country to the other—such as these:

1. Is there to be no "sharp alteration" in the policy of selecting for government commissions and boards only "left wingers" whose basic philosophy looks toward confiscation of private property and state socialism rather than private enterprise?

2. Will there be no "sharp alteration" in the system which appointed crooked politicians to public office as, for instance, certain collectors of internal revenue now removed from their jobs or convicted in the courts?

3. Will appointments to such non-partisan positions as director of civilian defense have to be "cleared" with the Democratic national committee as heretofore?

4. Will there be no "sharp alteration" in the policy of giving assurance to the CIO of the President's intention not to use a certain law which applies to serious strikes, which fact was revealed in a public speech last December by the head of that labor organization?

5. Will there be no "sharp alteration" in the policy of seizing public property without due process of law and then asking Congress for instructions, and, when Congress makes a request, ignoring it?

6. Will there be no "sharp alteration" in the policy of "packing" the federal judiciary with political hacks and partisans?

7. Will there be no "sharp alteration" in the policy of increasing non-defense expenditures and engaging in extravagant adventures and projects when the country is being taxed to the limit?

8. Will there be no "sharp alteration" in the policy of ordering American boys out of the country to fight in a major war involving more than 500,000 soldiers, sailors and airmen without ever asking for ratification of such action by the Congress as provided in the Constitution?

9. Will there be no "sharp alteration" in the policy of attacking the exposers of communism, while at the same time soft-pedaling the presence of Communist sympathizers in the Department of State who are allowed to resign rather than let them become subject to similar excoriations in the court of public opinion?

10. Is this to be a campaign of quibbles and equivocation, or is the governor going to keep the promise he made in his acceptance speech when he said, "Let's talk sense to the American people. Let's tell them the truth. . . ."

These are but a few of the questions that critics of the Truman administration will be asking Governor Stevenson to answer, now that he has introduced the idea of a "refreshening" of Roosevelt-Truman policies. What kind of "refreshening"? Does it mean "more ice" in the highball? Or just "more of the same"?

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Chicago, Aug. 5—If sometimes I seem critical of elements of our press for failure to get to the bottom of the story, let me offer the case of Sam Nanini as handled by the Tucson Citizen, the evening paper of the city which is my home.

The Citizen has published rapturous articles about Mr. Nanini, who suddenly came to our midst, went into the highway construction, ran up a stylish subdivision, cleared another expanse and started a cotton ranch watered by rivers of our precious treasure drawn from the falling underground water table. He has also bustled into our local public school politics as a very public-spirited, forward-looking fellow. He was elected to the Country Club, which has declined to admit some other citizens of admirable character, and into our old Pueblo Club, too.

Covering the Chicago union rackets and exposing some the the foulest rogues unhung, many of whom operate in collusion with contractors, I long ago unveiled Mike Carrozzo, who began as a magnate in prostitution and came on to dominate pick and shovel labor, mostly Italian in those days, and mostly ignorant and docile serfs of the padrones. Mike was regional satrap of the Hodcarriers' and Common Laborers' Union, which in more than 30 years, never held one convention or election. He furnished thousands of helpless hard-working greenhorns for the contractors, taxing them for the privilege of working so hard for a miserable existence, and owed the government a quarter of a million dollars in income taxes when he died in luxury at his great estate on Lake Michigan.

Sam Nanini is a rich man as he has not failed to inform the Tucson Citizen and he is said to have given the Italian government a lot of money for charity. That is, I read that he said so. He made his money in paving Chicago where his Road Rock Construction Co. got many contracts for the resurfacing of streets under the late Big Bill Thompson.

This was a terribly corrupt administration, but then, that goes for municipal government in Chicago practically all the time. Nanini had a process which permitted him to use the original concrete foundation in repaving. Carrozzo had a financial interest in a paving compound which was used on many public streets in those days. Mike was only one of a whole school of murderous criminals in the union rackets in Chicago who were known as a Mafia because they were either immigrants from Italy or sons of immigrants. Many of them were killed off in disputes over union jurisdiction and territorial monopolies in gambling and booze.

In 1947, Nanini wrote a letter to the federal parole board advocating an application by Louis Campagna, alias Little New York, for release from Atlanta prison where he was doing ten years as one of the Brown-Bioff mob who had robbed the working stiffs of the movie industry of more than a million dollars. They had taken another million, more or less, from the Hollywood magnates, but that was as much bribery as extortion. The workers were gypped by this process and the purpose of the magnates was to buy off the Browne-Bioff mob so that they would not have to pay higher wages.

Browne was a drunken bum who had been a scene-shifter. Bioff was a guttersnipe who gathered up a few tramps and opened a brothel upstairs over a saloon. He got six months in jail and finally had to serve it, but on the cushions, with a tub of beer in his office in the clink where the movie magnates came from afar to woo his favor.

MAYBE SAUCER RASH IS CURED

Now the Air Force says that flying saucers are as non-existent as those 14-carat gold ones on your kitchen shelf. All right, Air Force, but did you have to keep things up in the air so long?

The latest saucer rash soared to some sort of a dizzy record over Washington a few days ago. First the Air Force wouldn't even send up interceptor planes to investigate "unidentified objects" flying over the capital.

A week later the Air Defense Command ordered planes to take off instantly to chase saucers, spoons, teacups, or any other unidentified eating utensils sighted flying over the country, anywhere, any time.

So the Civil Aeronautics Administration got on its horse—the flying Pegasus, of course—and right away saw some things in the sky that needed chasing.

But it took more than two hours for the Air Force to get interceptor planes up. The flyboys said this reflected no lack of alertness on their part, only confusion. O.K.

A couple of days later, Civil Aeronautics Administration radar observers, which had busily been sighting everything put pie in the Washington sky, cooled off suddenly and completely.

The CAA traffic control center spotted things in the air for six hours but didn't even tell the Air Force. "We were too busy with other things," was the surprising explanation. "And besides those objects aren't hurting anybody."

And the Air Force didn't seem to mind, despite the fact that only a couple of days before jet pilots had been ordered to take to the sky immediately to chase everything that couldn't be identified.

By this time, the public, already a little unhinged by the heat and two political conventions, was about ready for the trembly ward.

Various official and unofficial explanations were forthcoming in bewildering variety. The things were everything from trucks to the product of war-jumpy nerves.

So the Air Force held a press conference to allay things. It said it was getting some scientists in to investigate the matter and meantime there wasn't anything to worry about.

The consensus on the latest saucer business was that the hot, humid weather had produced some reflections in the sky which looked likes solid objects.

So let's hope the saucer silliness is finished and done with. If, of course, it really is silliness.

GIFT FROM DEWEY

A friendly gesture by Governor Thomas E. Dewey of New York may win friends for the United States in Indo-China. Dewey, on his return from his trip through Asia, sent 600 small-mouth bass fingerlings to Emperor Bao Dai of Vietnam, Indo-China. The emperor, a fisherman, told Dewey, when the Governor visited him, that his mouth watered at the thought of well-cooked bass but the fish could not be found in his country.

These are perilous times and the United States needs all the friends it can get. Indo-China is a hot spot in the cold war and it is well for the United States to have influential friends in that area. Any fisherman will tell you that there is no better way to make a man your friend than to provide him with a chance at some fine fishing. Any one fond of good eating will aver that a succulent dish of bass, golden brown and hot from the frying pan, is a dish fit for a king or fit to make an emperor a friend.

EXCESSIVE SPEED

The faster you go, the harder you hit, warns the National Safety Council in its statistical yearbook.

Excessive speed was a factor in 35 per cent of the nation's 37,300 motor vehicle deaths last year. Twenty-eight per cent of the drivers involved in these accidents were reported violating some speed regulation. Fourteen per cent exceeded the stated speed limit, five per cent exceeded safe speeds although traveling under the state limit and nine per cent violated safe speeds in areas where there was no state limit.

'These Days'

THE AGE OF IRRESPONSIBILITY

In his book on the Far East, Governor Thomas E. Dewey interlopes an issue, during his description of his visit to Japan. The particular paragraphs are not germane to the visit but form an obiter dictum on the general subject of official irresponsibility.

Two theories move Dewey to this discussion:

1. That government officials should speak to and confer only with each other and that their conversations and acts must never be placed before the prying eyes of the American people who employ and pay them;

2. That men do err and should not be exposed as having erred, no matter how costly the error may be in national wealth or honor or even in human life.

To prove his point, Tom Dewey recites the following parable:

"On many other occasions, old, confidential reports have been dragged out and exposed to public inspection. The insecurity resulting from such exposure of confidential reports has swept through our whole foreign service. Men who entered the service under Wilson, Harding, Coolidge, and Hoover, as well as more recent appointees, all expressed the same opinion: 'If we are going to be held up to public scorn for our judgments 10 or 15 years after they were made, in the light of changing events, we simply will not stick our necks out. We are willing to file our honest opinions and truthful reports and take our chances with changing administrations of the State Department if our opinions seem wrong in the light of later events; but if everything we say in the exercise of honest judgment is going to be held up to hostile criticism as a result of personal pique on the part of individual senators or congressmen or as a result of conditions which have long since changed, we simply won't take the chance.'"

His conclusion is:

". . . It will be a long time before the United States again gets the full benefit of the advice and opinion of the really able men in the career service, who will need much reassurance before they resume the filing of reports which reflect their honest opinions on political trends abroad, social and economic conditions, and the impact made by visiting firemen."

In a word, if 120,000 Americans are casualties because some one erred in judgment or lacked knowledge and acted upon false opinions and reached unreasonable conclusions, it is none of the business of the American people or their members of Congress who may be engaged in investigating the causes of a disaster.

Tom Dewey has never permitted citizens who are attending to their own business the privacy he seeks for officials who are attending to the people's business. As a prosecuting attorney and as governor, he has always employed every process of law and power to get a fact he needed. It is therefore not a little astonishing that he should hold that the people's business is the private concern of those hired to handle it.

The fundamental question here is responsibility. A public official is not hired to do the best he can, which may not be good enough. He is not hired because he is infallible. He is hired to do a particular job and to be responsible to his employers, the taxpayers. Statutes of limitation run in the law; they do not exist in history. The careers of Constantine (288-337), of Genghis Khan (1162-1227), of Napoleon (1769-1821), of Abraham Lincoln (1809-1865), of Franklin D. Roosevelt and Adolf Hitler are constantly being reappraised as more data becomes available. Some day, an historian might even apply himself to Tom Dewey.

The grist of this mill is documents. The archives of many governments and even individuals do not become available for decades or even centuries. Sometimes they disappear altogether or are wilfully destroyed to prevent exposure. History is particularly unkind to arrogant egotists whose foibles kill off innocent human beings or destroy countries. We are just fully beginning to realize how many crazy men reached positions of rulership and the mischief they have done. Perhaps some day, a psychiatrist will write a history of the genus politician through the centuries.

The documents in the State Department and in the Pentagon cost the American taxpayer billions of dollars and they must in time be made available no matter who comes out of it looking like an idiot.

That Body of Yours

NUTRITIONAL DISEASES OF THE MOUTH

One of the significant statements of Dr. Osler was that it is about the mouth that most ailments get their start. Although he had in mind the serious ailments — pneumonia, bronchopneumonia, heart and rheumatic diseases—there are some less serious ailments about the mouth that cause misery and embarrasment. I have in mind the mouth ailments due to eating foods that upset the stomach and intestines and show these upsetments in and about the mouth. As these ailments are caused by certain foods, they are called nutritional ailments.

In Reviews of Gastroenterology (stomach and intestines), Dr. H. D. Fein states that the acuteness of these mouth ailments determines the speed with which they go away under proper treatment. When the ailment is slow in appearing, the individual has likely been eating the foods causing it for a long time and it is, therefore, a "chronic" ailment.

Since the advent of the vitamins, it has been learned that lack of certain vitamins is responsible for certain definite mouth ailments, but Dr. Fein points out that lack of minerals and other food factors are responsible for some of the mouth ailments.

Nutritional diseases are classified according to the site or spot where they occur. Diseases of the gums are acute (scurvy) or chronic gingivitis. Scurvy is a result of three to 12 months' deficiency of ascorbic acid—vitamin C. Severe swelling of gums and loosening of teeth occurs early. Vitamin C in adequate amounts results in definite improvement in two or three days and clearing in one or two weeks. Chronic gingivitis (inflamed gums) is fairly common as contrasted to scurvy and is characterized by redness, swelling, tenderness and bleeding of the gums. This ailment starts about the gum margins. A diet rich in vitamin C—fresh raw fruits, especially citrus fruits, green vegetables, tomatoes and tomato juice—seems to prevent gingivitis. Ailments of the tongue are usually caused by a lack of vitamin B complex and show changes in color and structure. A scarlet tongue is seen in pellagra and sprue (excess fat in stools). The tip and edges of the tongue are first affected and the redness is accompanied by soreness and swelling. Ulceration may occur but dramatic improvement occurs in pellagra in 24 hours after vitamin B12 or folic acid has been given. A beefy red tongue represents a lack of niacin or some other B-complex vitamin. When sores occur in corners of mouth it is also caused by lack of vitamin B (riboflavin).

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington—I have made a firm resolve not to eat any more pink peppermints—at least not in the entrance of the Mayflower dining room.

For, according to the testimony in the case of United States vs. Charles Patrick Clark, had I not dallied to pick up a mint, I would not have been punched in the lobby of the Mayflower by the lobbyist for Franco Spain.

Let me state here and now that I should have known better than to pick up a mint. Some years ago Bob Allen and I wrote a book in which one chapter was entitled "Pink Peppermints and Protocol," in which we had some caustic things to say about the gentlemen of the State Department. And if I was not smart enough to follow the advice I gave others about pink peppermints, then I suppose I deserved to be punched in the lobby, in the neck, or anywhere else.

So far I have refrained from commenting on a matter that was before the court. But now that a jury has given its verdict, perhaps I may be forgiven for making a few observations on how it feels to get punched in the lobby.

Sensation of a Circus Freak

Quite frankly, it makes you feel like a fool. You stand there kind of groggy. Scores of people rush to the doors of the dining room to see what's happening. A man in front of you is shouting, gesticulating, jumping up and down. Other people try to calm him down.

The only thing you definitely decide is that the next time anyone stops you in the Mayflower, you'll get your arm up first.

All this takes a matter of seconds, though it seems like hours. You keep on feeling like a freak before a circus crowd, until finally, the lobbyist for Franco, still muttering, is led away by the hotel detective.

That's how it feels to be punched in the lobby, and that's why I've resolved to give up peppermints. Because, according to court testimony, if I hadn't dropped behind my friends to pick up a mint, Lobbyist Clark would not have come bounding out of a telephone booth to precipitate l'affaire Mayflower.

Lobbying U. S. Policy

Now that I can comment on the matter with propriety, I would like to make one point I was not able to get across to the jury because Judge Tom Scalley quite rightly ruled that my views and my columns were not relevant.

That point is that, in writing about Spain, I was not personally interested in Lobbyist Clark. I was calling attention to a principle. Clark draws $75,000 a year from Franco to try to get money from the U. S. Government, and obviously he tried to earn his pay. He even gets a bonus when he persuades Congress to grant more money for Spain.

What I was chiefly writing about was not Clark but these two important principles:

Members of Congress who were used by Clark to secure cash for Franco and who in at least one case received money from Clark after making speeches in Congress urging support of Franco. When a congressman votes his conscience it's one thing. When he prostitutes his vote in return for money it's something the public has a right to know about.

The fact that U. S. foreign policy was being directed by a paid lobbyist. Foreign policy is supposed to be directed by the President and the State Department, and in the case of Spain both of them had taken a vigorous stand against money to Franco. Yet Congress, thanks in part to a skillful lobbyist, overrode the wishes of the executive and voted $162,500,000 anyhow.

When this happens, the question of how and why it happened is important news which the taxpayers who must pay that money are entitled to know about.

And it's a newspaperman's duty to write that news regardless of the physical risks or consequences.

Pearson Confesses

This kind of news which involves money passed between a lobbyist and a congressman is extremely difficult to write. It takes weeks and months of work. It also involves the risk of libel suits. Even then you can sometimes be wrong. In the Clark case, I am certain I was not wrong. Clark, incidentally, was given three opportunities to explain his position before anything was written; while the two congressmen were also given an opportunity.

Sometimes, despite careful checking, however, any newspaperman makes mistakes, and when this happens, I try to correct them. Recently, for instance, I reported that, at the Democratic convention in Chicago, Gov. John Battle of Virginia was privately critical of Democratic candidates and said he was for Eisenhower. Governor Battle now states that he did not say he was for Eisenhower and did not criticize the Democratic candidates. I am delighted to make his position clear.

I also find that I erred in stating that Ray Sprigle of the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette received his information on Justice Black's former membership in the Ku Klux Klan from Frank Prince, a private detective who had worked for Republic Steel. I am now informed by Herbert Bayard Swope, who, as editor of the old New York World, first exposed the Klan, that he gave this information to Sprigle, and I am glad to set this straight.

However, my statement that the attacks on Justice Black were unfair still stands.

But to get back to l'affaire Charles Patrick Clark and the lobby of the Mayflower. Though it may be a good idea to send aid to the Spanish people, this would be decided by our properly constituted authorities—not a paid lobbyist. For, when it's put across by a $75,000 lobbyist for the dictator who gets a $162,500,000 loan from Congress in return, then the executive has lost its bargaining power in securing Spanish air and naval bases.

For obviously the State Department can't bargain for bases when Franco knows he can go over the State Department's head through his lobbyist and his friends in Washington and get what he wants anyway.

That's the main reason why the Spanish base negotiations have been bogged down ever since April.

The Stone Face That Grins and Frowns

The Pagoda of King Angchan of Udong, Cambodia, is dominated by its stone face which can be readily used as a barometer. The stone is peculiarly porous and absorbs the moisture of the air and that accounts for the grin-and-frown phenomena.

Stevenson's Use of Phrases Might Not Mean What They Seem to Say at First Glance

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Aug. 6—Governor Stevenson is such a skillful user of phrases that one has to read them twice to make sure whether the Democratic nominee is making a serious blunder or merely steering cautiously among the political shoals.

Thus, on first glance, it may look as if the governor has made a grave mistake in saying that "what the nation wants is a refreshing—and not any sharp alteration—of the policies which have meant strength and progress for two decades."

The governor's refusal to make any "sharp alteration," could mean that he is not recognizing the nation-wide sentiment in favor of "change" and is planning to continue the New Deal and the Fair Deal policies of the last 20 years.

But, on the other hand, this could be a mere euphemism—the use of phrases to say pleasantly what would be unpleasant for Mr. Truman and his associates to hear. The governor's sentence above, moreover, could be construed to mean that he intends no "sharp alteration" only in those policies "which have meant strength and progress for two decades."

This could refer to only certain policies yet to be identified and it might mean sharp alteration or even abandonment of those policies which the nominee may, during the course of the campaign, feel compelled virtually to repudiate. Incidentally, no policy ever launched by the New Deal or the Fair Deal has been characterized by its sponsors as anything else but a measure of "strength and progress."

The eyes of millions of independent voters are on Governor Stevenson to see how much Trumanism he will reject and how much he will accept. His tactics thus far have been plainly to avoid a complete commitment. In his speech opening the Democratic National Convention the governor knew he had to make reference at least once to the Roosevelt and Truman administrations, so he did it with selectivity and deftness as follows:

". . . We will never apologize for our leadership of the great events of this critical century all the way from Woodrow Wilson to Harry Truman."

That takes in a long range in world affairs, but at the same time it rather limits his approval to "the great events of this critical century" and seems to ignore the domestic issues about which there has been so much vehement controversy in the last 20 years.

As the campaign develops, the Democratic nominee will have to amplify his position. He will be asked questions from one end of the country to the other—such as these:

1. Is there to be no "sharp alteration" in the policy of selecting for government commissions and boards only "left wingers" whose basic philosophy looks toward confiscation of private property and state socialism rather than private enterprise?

2. Will there be no "sharp alteration" in the system which appointed crooked politicians to public office as, for instance, certain collectors of internal revenue now removed from their jobs or convicted in the courts?

3. Will appointments to such non-partisan positions as director of civilian defense have to be "cleared" with the Democratic national committee as heretofore?

4. Will there be no "sharp alteration" in the policy of giving assurance to the CIO of the President's intention not to use a certain law which applies to serious strikes, which fact was revealed in a public speech last December by the head of that labor organization?

5. Will there be no "sharp alteration" in the policy of seizing public property without due process of law and then asking Congress for instructions, and, when Congress makes a request, ignoring it?

6. Will there be no "sharp alteration" in the policy of "packing" the federal judiciary with political hacks and partisans?

7. Will there be no "sharp alteration" in the policy of increasing non-defense expenditures and engaging in extravagant adventures and projects when the country is being taxed to the limit?

8. Will there be no "sharp alteration" in the policy of ordering American boys out of the country to fight in a major war involving more than 500,000 soldiers, sailors and airmen without ever asking for ratification of such action by the Congress as provided in the Constitution?

9. Will there be no "sharp alteration" in the policy of attacking the exposers of communism, while at the same time soft-pedaling the presence of Communist sympathizers in the Department of State who are allowed to resign rather than let them become subject to similar excoriations in the court of public opinion?

10. Is this to be a campaign of quibbles and equivocation, or is the governor going to keep the promise he made in his acceptance speech when he said, "Let's talk sense to the American people. Let's tell them the truth. . . ."

These are but a few of the questions that critics of the Truman administration will be asking Governor Stevenson to answer, now that he has introduced the idea of a "refreshening" of Roosevelt-Truman policies. What kind of "refreshening"? Does it mean "more ice" in the highball? Or just "more of the same"?

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Chicago, Aug. 5—If sometimes I seem critical of elements of our press for failure to get to the bottom of the story, let me offer the case of Sam Nanini as handled by the Tucson Citizen, the evening paper of the city which is my home.

The Citizen has published rapturous articles about Mr. Nanini, who suddenly came to our midst, went into the highway construction, ran up a stylish subdivision, cleared another expanse and started a cotton ranch watered by rivers of our precious treasure drawn from the falling underground water table. He has also bustled into our local public school politics as a very public-spirited, forward-looking fellow. He was elected to the Country Club, which has declined to admit some other citizens of admirable character, and into our old Pueblo Club, too.

Covering the Chicago union rackets and exposing some the the foulest rogues unhung, many of whom operate in collusion with contractors, I long ago unveiled Mike Carrozzo, who began as a magnate in prostitution and came on to dominate pick and shovel labor, mostly Italian in those days, and mostly ignorant and docile serfs of the padrones. Mike was regional satrap of the Hodcarriers' and Common Laborers' Union, which in more than 30 years, never held one convention or election. He furnished thousands of helpless hard-working greenhorns for the contractors, taxing them for the privilege of working so hard for a miserable existence, and owed the government a quarter of a million dollars in income taxes when he died in luxury at his great estate on Lake Michigan.

Sam Nanini is a rich man as he has not failed to inform the Tucson Citizen and he is said to have given the Italian government a lot of money for charity. That is, I read that he said so. He made his money in paving Chicago where his Road Rock Construction Co. got many contracts for the resurfacing of streets under the late Big Bill Thompson.

This was a terribly corrupt administration, but then, that goes for municipal government in Chicago practically all the time. Nanini had a process which permitted him to use the original concrete foundation in repaving. Carrozzo had a financial interest in a paving compound which was used on many public streets in those days. Mike was only one of a whole school of murderous criminals in the union rackets in Chicago who were known as a Mafia because they were either immigrants from Italy or sons of immigrants. Many of them were killed off in disputes over union jurisdiction and territorial monopolies in gambling and booze.

In 1947, Nanini wrote a letter to the federal parole board advocating an application by Louis Campagna, alias Little New York, for release from Atlanta prison where he was doing ten years as one of the Brown-Bioff mob who had robbed the working stiffs of the movie industry of more than a million dollars. They had taken another million, more or less, from the Hollywood magnates, but that was as much bribery as extortion. The workers were gypped by this process and the purpose of the magnates was to buy off the Browne-Bioff mob so that they would not have to pay higher wages.

Browne was a drunken bum who had been a scene-shifter. Bioff was a guttersnipe who gathered up a few tramps and opened a brothel upstairs over a saloon. He got six months in jail and finally had to serve it, but on the cushions, with a tub of beer in his office in the clink where the movie magnates came from afar to woo his favor.

Nanini's friend, Campagna, alias

WOODSTOCK NEWS

By RICHARD E. THIBAUT, Jr.

'Daughter' Opens For Week's Run

Woodstock, August 6—Yes, My Darling Daughter, Mark Reed's gay, yet subtly probing and polished piece concerned with the problems of an extraordinarily charming problem mother, opened Tuesday night at the Playhouse. Through the comfortable, typical upper-bracket Connecticut country drawing room, the Murray family, and those they love, move with easy grace and shifting viewpoint on life, morals and sex.

Anne Whiteman Murray, played with superlative witchery by Bess Winburn, has a past, just how fascinating she hadn't perceived until it turns up as the subject of her daughter's senior thesis on the contribution of Greenwich Village to life, arts and letters. Pat Sales as the eager Ellen Murray strikes an engaging balance between sophisticated maturity and extremely personable youthful appeal.

When mother's past rises up to smite her in her daughter's precocious viewpoint, mother's left without an answer. A flighty, beautiful and rich Aunt Connie, recently returned from Reno and shedding her third husband, prattling away about love, doesn't help matters much either. Viola Harris is deliciously addled, pathetic and also very funny perpetually wagging her chin at the wrong moment.

With a mother-daughter combination like Ann and Ellen, young Douglas Hall doesn't have a leg or a moral to stand on. Between "liquidating his college education,"—a set of drafting tools, skis and other paraphernalia—and making up for two years proposed absence in Belgium selling razor blades, he's a busy young man. Arthur Storch as usual brings vitality and reality to his role.

Not much help to mother either is her literary agent, the poised sophisticate, Titus Jaywood, except when drawn into the crossfire, is able to view their difficulty from the pinnacle of contented bachelorhood. Gordon Mill's steady and convincing portrayal of a contented man is sufficiently strong to make even Aunt Connie's interest in this gentler state of being seem believable. Father's opinions and principles take quite a kicking around, and although they may seem to creak a bit they contain surprisingly strong fibre. Franklyn Fox as Lewis Murray the yachting parent, turns in a fine performance, particularly in the riotous scene wherein he endeavors to reprimand his daughter's suitor, but words elude him.

Robert H. Harris, director, has produced a sparkling, smoothly rounded showpiece in Yes, My Darling Daughter, which is being presented at the Playhouse through Sunday night.

Foundation Group Will Meet Friday

Woodstock, Aug. 6—David Huffine, acting president of the Woodstock Foundation, has called a meeting of the membership (which includes everyone who has contributed time or effort to the organization) at the Dutch Reformed Church, Friday at 4:30 p. m.

During the meting new trustees will be elected to replace those whose terms are expiring and to determine the time and place of the benefit performance which is an annual fund-raising event. Committees will be appointed and duties outlined in order that the next project will get underway in proper time. All those who wish to bring forth ideas, suggestions or criticism are welcome to discuss this with Huffine before the meeting or at the meeting itself.

The foundation is a community organization developed in 1947 to raise funds for distribution among those in the creative arts and crafts who merit and need an award. To date, the foundation has given away more than $10,000 to working artists, musicians, writers, sculptors, composers, and all of the money has ben raised through the medium of an annual benefit performance at the Playhouse, and contributions by those interested in the work of the foundation. The organization solicits funds once a year and does not hold any other form of benefit. A committee of members and the board of trustees selects from those names which have been suggested for awards which names are finally voted upon by the 18 members of the board of trustees whose word is final.

25 Have Benefited

The foundation is not a philanthropic organization devoted to charity. Its awardees are men and women of stature in the fields of art, many with national and international reputations and its purpose is to help those who can help themselves to bring forth new creative work. To date, more than 25 artists have benefited from the funds raised. The Foundation has a policy of distributing all its funds each year.

The officers and trustees of the Woodstock Foundation, an incorporated institution are as follows: William J. Pachner, president; David B. Huffine, vice president; Mrs. Emmet Edwards, secretary; Mrs. John F. Carlson, corresponding secretary; Richard Chambers, treasurer; trustees—Sidney Berkowitz, Mrs. John F. Carlson, Richard Chambers, Dr. Hans J. Cohn, Mrs. Emmet Edwards, David Broome Huffine, Mrs. Carl Eric Lindin, C. J. McCarthy, Mrs. Austin Mecklem, William J. Pachner, John Pike, Houston Richards, Mrs. Charles Rosen, Eugene Speicher, John H. Striebel, Dudley G. Summers, the Rev. Harvey I. Todd and Allen Waterous.

Everyone is urged to attend the meeting Friday. There will be no fund raising at this meeting.

Religious Music Program Planned

Woodstock, Aug. 6—The variety of religious music in America will be illustrated in a program to be presented at the time of the regular service Sunday, August 10, at 8 p. m., at the Shady Methodist Church. Sidney Robertson Cowell will play field recordings of hymns that she has made in the course of her folksong collecting in the south, and a group conducted by Mrs. Cowell will sing three fuguing tunes as written by Lewis Edson. Edson was an important early American composer who spent his last years in Shady (then called Bristol); he died at Mink Hollow in 1820. His great-grandson was John Wesley Edson, who is still remembered by old timers in the township.

A fuguing tune, Mrs. Cowell explains, is a hymn with a short section in the middle in which the various parts: treble, alto, tenor and bass, each come in a few notes apart. It sounds for a moment like a round except that the different parts to not necessarily sing exactly the same tune. After flying apart briefly, the parts singing different words at the same time, they then come together for a triumphant conclusion. William Billings of Boston is the best known composer of fuguing tunes, but there are many others. Like Billings, Edson was an artisan (a blacksmith) and a farmer, who conducted singing school sessions in many places in Massachusetts, Connecticut and New York. His son, Lewis, Jr., also wrote hymns and published a collection of them which contain all that is known of the music written by his father and himself, called the Social Harmonist.

This volume, according to Mrs. Cowell, is one of the rarest of the early tune books. Only three copies of the little book are known, and none of them is the first edition, which was published in New York in 1800. A copy of the first edition would be of great interest because it almost certainly contained music by Lewis Edson, Sr., that did not appear in the later editions. Several libraries would be interested in obtaining a copy of this hymn. Mrs. Cowell would be interested in having anyone who possesses a copy communicate with her in Shady, or call Woodstock 2504.

The tune Lenox, by Lewis Edson, Sr., is in most Protestant hymnals, and is still sung in services at Shady and elsewhere in the township. But the melody, which always used to be sung by the tenor, has been moved up into the soprano, and the harmonies have been modernized, so Lenox no longer sounds as it did in Edson's day. The group singing Sunday night will use the original form of Lenox and two other tunes. Consequently the music will sound as the composer intended it should.

McCarthy Exhibit Opens on Friday

Woodstock, Aug. 6—Painter, illustrator, teacher, movie actor, advertising manager, promoter, art director, chef—all these roles can be claimed by C. J. McCarthy, whose exhibition of paintings opens at the Town House, Friday afternoon.

McCarthy began his career in Rochester, learning the photo-engraving trade. From there he went into newspaper work, moving to New York to study at the Art Students League. In his three years at the League he won every available scholarship and went abroad for further study. On his return he began work as illustrator and cover artist for such publications as the Saturday Evening Post, Colliers, Ladies Home Journal and other magazines. In between jobs he appeared in 12 movies, posed for some of the outstanding painters and illustrators of that period, as well as keeping an interest in all that was going on in the art world.

Having visited Woodstock as a student at the summer school of the Art Students League, working under Birge Harrison and John Carlson, he decided to concentrate on a career as a painter and settled in Woodstock, where he has made a unique place for himself.

President and co-founder of the Woodstock Country Club, he produced and directed a number of Revues at the Maverick Theatre and Woodstock Playhouse, bringing many well-known stars as gift artists. He also produced the first Woodstock Foundation show and has been a director and enthusiastic supporter of that organization.

Expression Is Interest

In his painting, McCarthy says, "I do not wish to be classed in any school. My interest is in all expression, regardless of label. We can only enjoy what is presented with the knowledge we bring to it. That is important. Don't judge without understanding, that is being false to oneself. If you build barriers, you are the loser."

The McCarthy exhibition at the Town House will consist of landscapes, seascapes, drawings and portraits. A lover of sea and sky, he has spent many years studing both, changing his medium to keep his work fresh. This is his third exhibition at the Town House in the past six years and he credits S. Sam Schwartz, the owner, with doing a splendid work in opening the facilities of the Town House to many local artists, enabling them to show their work under the most favorable conditions. The McCarthy exhibition will be on view through the week.

"I believe we are all here for a purpose," McCarthy said. "We should use our talents to serve." He has an intense enthusiasm for what he is doing, whether it be painting, teaching, or any one of the many activities in which his interests lie. He is always telling of the beauty of his contemporaries work and has been instrumental in selling many pictures by other artists.

McCarthy is teaching a number of students privately, and for two and one-half years taught at the Saxton Fells School of Art.

Says He Was Dropped

New York, Aug. 6 (AP)—James A. Wechsler, who was to have appeared on tonight's program, said he had been emphatically anti-Communist since he quit the Young Communist League in 1937 at the age of 22.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Aug. 6 (AP)—A brave attempt to advance was made today by the stock market, but most efforts fell short of the goal.

Plus signs amounted to fractions on up to around a point. Losses were frequent but held down severely.

Trading was at a fairly good pace, and most of the time maintained a rate better than that which produced yesterday's shares.

Racks Are Lowered

Two metal racks in the office of the Ulster county clerk, Wall and Main streets, were cut down Monday and Tuesday evenings in order to facilitate filing. County Clerk Harry D. Sutton said that women employes in the offices had been using a "[illegible] stool" to reach the tops of t[illegible]ks and that it was a "hazar[illegible]me of the girls having "hurt their ankles." The racks were reduced approximately eight inches, he said, which will make it possible for employes to reach the top of the rack without using the step stool.

WOODSTOCK NEWS

By RICHARD E. THIBAUT, Jr.

'Daughter' Opens For Week's Run

Woodstock, August 6—Yes, My Darling Daughter, Mark Reed's gay, yet subtly probing and polished piece concerned with the problems of an extraordinarily charming problem mother, opened Tuesday night at the Playhouse. Through the comfortable, typical upper-bracket Connecticut country drawing room, the Murray family, and those they love, move with easy grace and shifting viewpoint on life, morals and sex.

Anne Whiteman Murray, played with superlative witchery by Bess Winburn, has a past, just how fascinating she hadn't perceived until it turns up as the subject of her daughter's senior thesis on the contribution of Greenwich Village to life, arts and letters. Pat Sales as the eager Ellen Murray strikes an engaging balance between sophisticated maturity and extremely personable youthful appeal.

When mother's past rises up to smite her in her daughter's precocious viewpoint, mother's left without an answer. A flighty, beautiful and rich Aunt Connie, recently returned from Reno and shedding her third husband, prattling away about love, doesn't help matters much either. Viola Harris is deliciously addled, pathetic and also very funny perpetually wagging her chin at the wrong moment.

With a mother-daughter combination like Ann and Ellen, young Douglas Hall doesn't have a leg or a moral to stand on. Between "liquidating his college education,"—a set of drafting tools, skis and other paraphernalia—and making up for two years proposed absence in Belgium selling razor blades, he's a busy young man. Arthur Storch as usual brings vitality and reality to his role.

Not much help to mother either is her literary agent, the poised sophisticate, Titus Jaywood, except when drawn into the crossfire, is able to view their difficulty from the pinnacle of contented bachelorhood. Gordon Mill's steady and convincing portrayal of a contented man is sufficiently strong to make even Aunt Connie's interest in this gentler state of being seem believable. Father's opinions and principles take quite a kicking around, and although they may seem to creak a bit they contain surprisingly strong fibre. Franklyn Fox as Lewis Murray the yachting parent, turns in a fine performance, particularly in the riotous scene wherein he endeavors to reprimand his daughter's suitor, but words elude him.

Robert H. Harris, director, has produced a sparkling, smoothly rounded showpiece in Yes, My Darling Daughter, which is being presented at the Playhouse through Sunday night.

Foundation Group Will Meet Friday

Woodstock, Aug. 6—David Huffine, acting president of the Woodstock Foundation, has called a meeting of the membership (which includes everyone who has contributed time or effort to the organization) at the Dutch Reformed Church, Friday at 4:30 p. m.

During the meting new trustees will be elected to replace those whose terms are expiring and to determine the time and place of the benefit performance which is an annual fund-raising event. Committees will be appointed and duties outlined in order that the next project will get underway in proper time. All those who wish to bring forth ideas, suggestions or criticism are welcome to discuss this with Huffine before the meeting or at the meeting itself.

The foundation is a community organization developed in 1947 to raise funds for distribution among those in the creative arts and crafts who merit and need an award. To date, the foundation has given away more than $10,000 to working artists, musicians, writers, sculptors, composers, and all of the money has ben raised through the medium of an annual benefit performance at the Playhouse, and contributions by those interested in the work of the foundation. The organization solicits funds once a year and does not hold any other form of benefit. A committee of members and the board of trustees selects from those names which have been suggested for awards which names are finally voted upon by the 18 members of the board of trustees whose word is final.

The foundation is not a philanthropic organization devoted to charity. Its awardees are men and women of stature in the fields of art, many with national and international reputations and its purpose is to help those who can help themselves to bring forth new creative work. To date, more than 25 artists have benefited from the funds raised. The Foundation has a policy of distributing all its funds each year.

The officers and trustees of the Woodstock Foundation, an incorporated institution are as follows: William J. Pachner, president; David B. Huffine, vice president; Mrs. Emmet Edwards, secretary; Mrs. John F. Carlson, corresponding secretary; Richard Chambers, treasurer; trustees—Sidney Berkowitz, Mrs. John F. Carlson, Richard Chambers, Dr. Hans J. Cohn, Mrs. Emmet Edwards, David Broome Huffine, Mrs. Carl Eric Lindin, C. J. McCarthy, Mrs. Austin Mecklem, William J. Pachner, John Pike, Houston Richards, Mrs. Charles Rosen, Eugene Speicher, John H. Striebel, Dudley G. Summers, the Rev. Harvey I. Todd and Allen Waterous.

Everyone is urged to attend the meeting Friday. There will be no fund raising at this meeting.

Religious Music Program Planned

Woodstock, Aug. 6—The variety of religious music in America will be illustrated in a program to be presented at the time of the regular service Sunday, August 10, at 8 p. m., at the Shady Methodist Church. Sidney Robertson Cowell will play field recordings of hymns that she has made in the course of her folksong collecting in the south, and a group conducted by Mrs. Cowell will sing three fuguing tunes as written by Lewis Edson. Edson was an important early American composer who spent his last years in Shady (then called Bristol); he died at Mink Hollow in 1820. His great-grandson was John Wesley Edson, who is still remembered by old timers in the township.

A fuguing tune, Mrs. Cowell explains, is a hymn with a short section in the middle in which the various parts: treble, alto, tenor and bass, each come in a few notes apart. It sounds for a moment like a round except that the different parts to not necessarily sing exactly the same tune. After flying apart briefly, the parts singing different words at the same time, they then come together for a triumphant conclusion. William Billings of Boston is the best known composer of fuguing tunes, but there are many others. Like Billings, Edson was an artisan (a blacksmith) and a farmer, who conducted singing school sessions in many places in Massachusetts, Connecticut and New York. His son, Lewis, Jr., also wrote hymns and published a collection of them which contain all that is known of the music written by his father and himself, called the Social Harmonist.

This volume, according to Mrs. Cowell, is one of the rarest of the early tune books. Only three copies of the little book are known, and none of them is the first edition, which was published in New York in 1800. A copy of the first edition would be of great interest because it almost certainly contained music by Lewis Edson, Sr., that did not appear in the later editions. Several libraries would be interested in obtaining a copy of this hymn. Mrs. Cowell would be interested in having anyone who possesses a copy communicate with her in Shady, or call Woodstock 2504.

The tune Lenox, by Lewis Edson, Sr., is in most Protestant hymnals, and is still sung in services at Shady and elsewhere in the township. But the melody, which always used to be sung by the tenor, has been moved up into the soprano, and the harmonies have been modernized, so Lenox no longer sounds as it did in Edson's day. The group singing Sunday night will use the original form of Lenox and two other tunes. Consequently the music will sound as the composer intended it should.

McCarthy Exhibit Opens on Friday

Woodstock, Aug. 6—Painter, illustrator, teacher, movie actor, advertising manager, promoter, art director, chef—all these roles can be claimed by C. J. McCarthy, whose exhibition of paintings opens at the Town House, Friday afternoon.

McCarthy began his career in Rochester, learning the photo-engraving trade. From there he went into newspaper work, moving to New York to study at the Art Students League. In his three years at the League he won every available scholarship and went abroad for further study. On his return he began work as illustrator and cover artist for such publications as the Saturday Evening Post, Colliers, Ladies Home Journal and other magazines. In between jobs he appeared in 12 movies, posed for some of the outstanding painters and illustrators of that period, as well as keeping an interest in all that was going on in the art world.

Having visited Woodstock as a student at the summer school of the Art Students League, working under Birge Harrison and John Carlson, he decided to concentrate on a career as a painter and settled in Woodstock, where he has made a unique place for himself.

President and co-founder of the Woodstock Country Club, he produced and directed a number of Revues at the Maverick Theatre and Woodstock Playhouse, bringing many well-known stars as gift artists. He also produced the first Woodstock Foundation show and has been a director and enthusiastic supporter of that organization.

Expression Is Interest

In his painting, McCarthy says, "I do not wish to be classed in any school. My interest is in all expression, regardless of label. We can only enjoy what is presented with the knowledge we bring to it. That is important. Don't judge without understanding, that is being false to oneself. If you build barriers, you are the loser."

The McCarthy exhibition at the Town House will consist of landscapes, seascapes, drawings and portraits. A lover of sea and sky, he has spent many years studing both, changing his medium to keep his work fresh. This is his third exhibition at the Town House in the past six years and he credits S. Sam Schwartz, the owner, with doing a splendid work in opening the facilities of the Town House to many local artists, enabling them to show their work under the most favorable conditions. The McCarthy exhibition will be on view through the week.

"I believe we are all here for a purpose," McCarthy said. "We should use our talents to serve." He has an intense enthusiasm for what he is doing, whether it be painting, teaching, or any one of the many activities in which his interests lie. He is always telling of the beauty of his contemporaries work and has been instrumental in selling many pictures by other artists.

McCarthy is teaching a number of students privately, and for two and one-half years taught at the Saxton Fells School of Art.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Aug. 6 (AP)—A brave attempt to advance was made today by the stock market, but most efforts fell short of the goal.

Plus signs amounted to fractions on up to around a point. Losses were frequent but held down severely.

Trading was at a fairly good pace, and most of the time maintained a rate better than that which produced yesterday's shares.

Drouth Brings Disaster to Farmers and Cattlemen

Two months without rain and an almost unprecedented heat wave combined to create the worst drouth in 20 years in large areas of the northeast and southeast. Crop damage is measured in the hundreds of millions of dollars. Corn, cotton, vegetables and cattle all suffered in the areas shown on Newsmap above. Crop damage in the southeast alone passed the $500,000,000 mark. The Department of Agriculture, designating Maine, Alabama, Georgia, Kentucky, Mississippi, South Carolina, Tennessee and parts of Arkansas and Missouri as disaster areas, is extending emergency relief. In New England, which suffered from grain losses and lowered milk production, authorities tried to make rain by seeding clouds with dry ice. Photo at left shows farmer Estis L. Milam, of Fairburn, Ga., in his corn field, vainly searching for ears he can market.

Grange News

Reports for N. Y. State Grange Membership Contest deadline is next Friday, August 15. On the basis of last year's records only about one-fifth have been sent in so far. Awards of pins and pencils for individuals bringing in five or more new members are being duly tabulated, and will be mailed out as soon as all reports are in. To qualify for these and awards in membership and attendance, entries must be submitted before the above date.

State Fair at Syracuse August 30 through September 6 will have more than usual attraction for farm and rural community folks this year. Just about every exhibit of rural progress will be there for everyone: poultry, animals, machinse, floriculture, vegetables. Sports, thrills, races and the midway, atomic energy display, drum corps, ice skaters will interest everyone from tot to tottering. On the first Sunday will be held inter-denominational services in Coliseum, one of the most thoughtful features of any fair anywhere, when State Fair "Pauses before God". It's a great show, and you won't want to miss it.

Grange, in its own building just inside the main entrance, will again feature talent shows daily. Here most Grange members will want to gather, register, chat with friends before they move on. In the Horticultural Building, in addition to the nine Subordinate and three Pomona exhibits, there will be an additional feature, a "Better Gardens for Better Living" animated display, set up with the cooperation of the Extension Department, Cornell.

Paint program, stimulated by the free paint offer made by G. L. F., has been joined by 130 Granges. All but seven upstate counties are represented with from one to eight Granges. This is a splendid chance to fix up your Grange Hall. Your Subordinate Master has all the details. Don't miss this opportunity.

Noses Get Attention

Munich, Germany (AP)—Plastic surgeons here will hand you a new nose for as little as $60. The plastic surgeons who often operate through beauty salons, lead prospective clients up the garden path with ads which hint that you, too, can look like Gary Cooper or Ingrid Bergman — provided you get an overhaul job on that nose. Reports indicate there are enough dissatisfied nose-holders to keep the work going.

To Tour Battle Area

Singapore, Malaya, Aug. 5 (AP)—U. S. Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas arrived by air today for a two-week tour of the jungle battle area where British and Malayan troops are fighting Communist guerrillas.

As Pegler Sees It

Little New York, and his colleagues finally got ten years. All were sprung out of prison when they had served the absolute minimum of 3 1/3 years. Jim Doherty, of the Chicago Tribune, a wonderful old school reporter, who had watched this filthy crew for years, exposed the deal so Campagna and others had to go back. Thereafter, the case got fouled up in Democratic politics, habeas corpuses and appeals. Then the Democrats won the 1948 election so this is just another Department of Justice job that will have to await the judgment day.

John Tiberi, another paving contractor, also wrote for clemency for Campagna, and Congressman Busbey, who comes from Chicago and knows the works in paving and union rackets, noted for the record that Campagna's cousin, Tony D'Andrea, had kept ready-mixed concrete out of Chicago for 20 years by refusing to let union paving workers handle the stuff. Tony was one of Al Capone's bodyguards and was pinched in Judge Wilkerson's courtroom for carrying a gun during Capone's trial. Harry Truman's patron and mentor, Tom Pendergast, had a monopoly on ready-mixed concrete in Kansas City for many years including Truman's term as loyal heeler on the county board.

Congressman Busbey said the union's objections to the use of ready-mixed concrete were withdrawn after Tiberi, the contractor, added his indorsement to Nanini's appeal for Campagna's parole. Bill Maloney, of Chicago, the international president of the Operating Engineers, got a mockwork job for one of his loafers at $25 a day on each rig. Maloney's racket is as bad as the Hodcarriers' and Common Laborers. He and Nanini are old pals, too.

In the congressional inquiry into the paroles, Congressman Melvin C. Snyder, of West Virginia, showed that Campagna had done one term for a bank robbery, had been pinched on a gun charge, and was picked up in the murder of two members of the Illinois Legislature, Representative Prignano and Bolton.

Additional Q. and A. goes thus:

Q.—On July 11, 1936, there was a charge against you for espionage as one of the leaders of the Sicilian Camorra to control gambling.

A.—Not that I remember.

Q.—You would remember it if it happened, wouldn't you?

A.—Not any espionage.

Q.—On Aug. 12, 1936, were you arrested and questioned with reference to the Capone gang to control gambling, prostitution and bootlegging?

A.—I may have been. I just don't recall it.

Q.—Will you deny you were arrested?

A.—No. I just don't recollect it.

Q.—On Aug. 13, the following day, were you arrested concerning the murder of state Representatives Bolton and Prignano?

A.—I may have been arrested, but I never was questioned about any of these representatives or whatever it is.

Q.—Were you arrested but discharged in a drive against public enemies?

A.—I don't recall that I was. I know I was arrested once on it but I was discharged.

Q.—On Oct. 8, 1950, there was a warrant for you charging conspiracy to seize the Bartenders' Union. Where you ever arrested on that charge?

A.—No.

Q.—Then you had this tax lien against you for $468,877 on funds specifically received between 1937 and 1941. Did you ask Sam Nanini to write a letter?

A.—Yes.

Mr. Nanini may entertain Mr. Capagna at the Tucson Country Club and the old Pueblo Club and put him up for guest privileges or membership.

I thought the cub reporters of the Tucson Citizen should know that it is good policy not to take a stranger at his own evaluation of himself as a philanthropist. You never can tell what you might turn up if you dig a little.

Schooner Heads for Tatiti

Wilmington, Calif. (AP) — Three young navy veterans sailed off recently in their 43-foot schooner, Camarada, bent on following in the wake of the Kon Tiki, a raft full of scientists which drifted from Chile to the South Seas. The trio, Frank Thatcher, 26, Pat Swift, 26, and Miles Wyatt, 27, explained they would work their way down the coast stopping at La Paz and Acapulco, Mexico, then at Panama and South American ports. "We plan to be gone 18 to 24 months," said Thatcher, "depending on how long the money holds out." After they reach Valpariso, Chile, they will turn west toward the Marquesas and Tahiti.

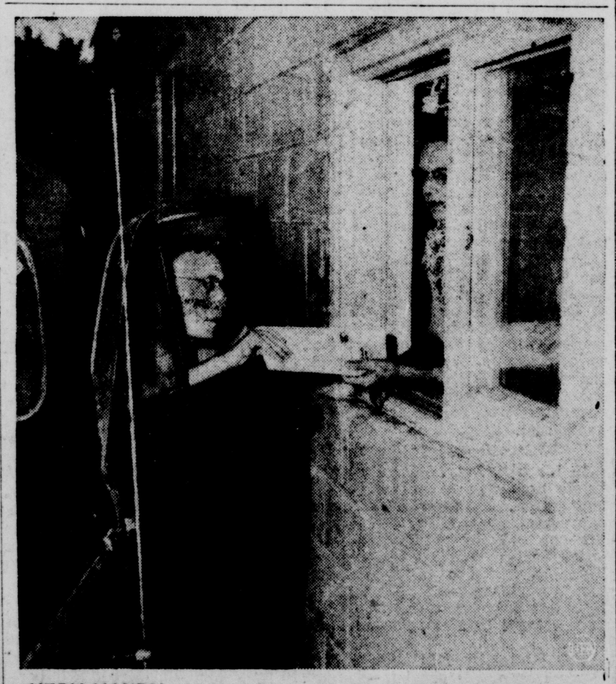

State Traffic Count Set for Saturday

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 6 (AP)—The state will take its annual traffic census Saturday at 1,900 checkpoints on New York's sprawling highway network.

The Public Works Department said today 4,000 department employes would man the checkpoints between 6 a. m., and 6 p. m. (EST).

The annual count furnishes traffic data to guide the department in long-range highway planning. Approximately 9,750,000 vehicles were counted in the 1951 survey.

In the event of generally rainy weather on Saturday, the count will be postponed to Aug. 16.

Bernie Widow Asks Arrest of Rose On Affidavit Data

Beverly Hills, Calif., Aug. 6 (AP)—Mrs. Ben Bernie wants showman Billy Rose arrested. She says he showed several persons an affidavit by her former maid accusing her and Eleanor Holm, Rose's estranged wife, of improper conduct.

Mrs. Bernie, widow of the bandleader, signed a complaint in Municipal Court yesterday and a bench warrant was issued for Rose's arrest. The district attorney's office said it does not expect to try to extradite Rose from New York, but he can be arrested if he comes to California.

The complaint is based on an affidavit obtained by Rose from Alberta Jones, 30, of Los Angeles. It states that while she was employed by Mrs. Bernie in New York in 1944 she saw Mrs. Bernie and Mrs. Rose committing improper acts.

Rose and his swimming queen wife are engaged in a bitter divorce battle. Married in 1939, they separated shortly after Actress Joyce Matthews, ex-wife of Milton Berle, cut her wrists in Rose's New York apartment a year ago.

Mrs. Bernie said the affidavit, which she called a "fabrication," was shown to a number of persons, including Bernie's brother, Herman Bernie. It exposes her to "public hatred, contempt and ridicule," Mrs. Bernie said.

The misdemeanor criminal libel with which Mrs. Bernie accuses Rose carries a maximum penalty of $5,000 fine and a year in jail.

Rose, in New York, said the maid was one of his witnesses in his divorce action against his wife, who is suing him for separate maintenance. He said he had offered to pay expenses for a representative of the district attorney's office here to go to New York and take his testimony in connection with the libel suit.

He also said that the district attorney has been asked to hold up action on the warrant until after the divorce case, and that a substantial bond has been offered to guarantee his appearance in California immediately afterward. Both offers were rejected, Ross said.

Bill Maloney, of Chicago, the international president of the Operating Engineers, got a mock-work job for one of his loafers at $25 a day on each rig. Maloney's racket is as bad as the Hodcarriers' and Common Laborers. He and Nanini are old pals, too.

Thornton Winthrop, an actor rather well-known in his day, had long since passed his prime and keenly felt the loss of his popularity. One day as he climbed into a taxicab he got the impression that the driver hadn't recognized him but felt sure that he was remembered. He decided to find out if the name of Winthrop meant anything to the cabbie.

Thornton—Did you ever hear of Thornton Winthrop?

Cabbie—Yes, sir.

Thornton—Wonderful man, isn't he?

Cabbie—He certainly is.

The dollar is groggy. And from the looks of things, it is going to get groggier. Philip Murray has been in the economic ring with the dollar for about 15 rounds and recently emerged victorious. The steel workers (it will be their 13th wage increase in 15 years) are to get about 22 cents an hour more in wages and fringe benefits.

Murray is hardly out of the ring before John L. Lewis, for his coal miners, announces that in September he wants to give battle to the dollar.

In prize fighting a champion usually defends his title once or twice a year if a suitable opponent can be found. It takes some time to prepare for a championship battle; and then, after the scrap, a contestant has to have time to recuperate.

But our dollar has been in an inflationary ring for 20 years. It has had neither adequate training periods nor resting spells. It has had to take illegal punches; to survive unfair refereeing and, above all, it has had to bear up under an avalanche of body blows inflicted on it by a great variety of opponents.

No wonder, then, the dollar is groggy. Furthermore, if this Murray and Lewis business continues and if unbalanced budgets still emanate from Washington, the dollar's strength and resiliency will grow weaker and weaker.

Inflation has become a way of life. When anything settles down on a people for a generation, it becomes part and parcel of that people. And economic events have to shape themselves to fit into that kind of society.

Inflation is a disgrace to America. If we had a low standard of living; if we had a poverty of natural resources; if our people (generally speaking) were lazy and indolent; if industrially we could not begin to supply the goods and services required by 155,000,000 persons; if we did not have executive leaders, inventive geniuses and production masters, then I would say inflation would be a natural in America.

But we have everything. Yet the spiral of inflation keeps moving. Yes, I say inflation is a disgrace to this great country. And it is estimated that for the fiscal year 1952-53, the government (even in the face of high taxes) will be in the red to the tune of 10 or 15 billions of dollars.

We had better get some capable fiscal managers in Washington. If we don't, the dollar will get groggrier and groggier.

When a dollar is groggy, what is paper money worth? When Philip Murray and John L. Lewis assault the dollar, forcing wages higher and higher, and when governmental borrowing goes on apace, what is an individual, lost in the labyrinth of inflation, going to do?

Well, one thing is certain; as paper dollars decline in purchasing power and prices and wages advance, it becomes patent that most people should own some values that are inseparably connected with the wealth that produces American's standard of living.

I say that today our inflationary dollar invites millions upon millions of our people to become part owners of the very enterprises that house and feed and clothe and amuse our population.

Yes, own something that is in the center of America's essential production. Preferably, buy into corporations with excellent management, long and successful financial operations, whose stocks have paid dividends for decades. They have the resilience to counteract somewhat the deterioration that comes to paper money when prices wages and costs go berserk.

How It All Began

Before taking off from International Airport, New York, August 4, for his first meeting with Breda O'Sullivan, County Kerry, Ireland, Frank Hayostak, of Johnstown, Pa., shows how he placed a letter in a discarded aspirin bottle while returning from Europe on a troopship on Christmas night, 1945. The letter, dropped overboard 100 miles from New York, washed ashore on the southwest Irish coast August 23, 1946 and was found by Breda, a milkmaid. They have corresponded ever since.

Ex-Bookies Say They Paid Through Gross

New York, Aug. 6 (AP)—Two former bookmakers say they obtained police protection after arranging for monthly payments to ex-bookie Harry Gross or to an alleged Gross employe.

The testimony was heard yesterday at a departmental trial of 34 suspended policemen.

Gross, who reputedly had a 20-million-dollar-a-year Brooklyn gambling empire, has said he paid a million a year for protection of his own operations.

Charged with sharing in this Gross-paid graft, the 34 defendants face dismissal from the force without pensions if found guilty.

Sol (Chesty) Gleicher, a former bookmaker, testified yesterday he had been arrested a number of times while he operated as an independent bookmaker before 1946.

Gleicher said he then became a Gross "partner" and never was arrested again. Gleicher said the partnership consisted of a 50-50 split of his profits with Gross, now in jail, after deductions for expenses. Among these expenses, the witness said, was a payment of $1,000 a month Gross said was for police protection.

Another former bookmaker witness, Samuel Berman, said he "kicked in" $500 a month for police protection to Willi Ricci, allegedly the Gross "paymaster." Berman said he knew Ricci was a Gross employe.

Shower of Rocks Baffles Home Owner, Police

Evansville, Ind., Aug. 6 (AP)—For seven successive nights, limestone rocks about the size of a fist have rained down from somewhere onto the roof of Lewis Schattin's farmhouse.

The Schattin farm, five miles north of Evansville, is on level ground, and stands in the open. Neighbors and curiosity seekers have stood guard at the house an in surrounding fields, yet the rockfall continues from an as yet unknown source.

Deputy Sheriff Leonard Denton went out last night and was just as mystified as the next one.

David M. Bigelow, director of education at the Evansville Public Museum, suggested that limestone layers under incinerators sometimes explode.

Lewis thought that interesting, but he has had no fires on the premises.

Taft Backer Loses Bid To Get on N. Y. Ballot

New York, Aug. 6 (AP)—Richard Neville, who defied the state Republican organization to support Sen. Robert A. Taft for the GOP presidention nomination, has lost a legal bid to get on his party's primary ballot for Congress.

Supreme Court Justice Thomas J. Brady yesterday upheld the Board of Elections in its refusal to accept a nomination petition for Neville. The justice dismissed an application by Neville for an order requiring the board to reinstate his petition.

Brady said Neville's petition was "fatally defective" under the state's election law.

Neville had sought the Republican nomination for Congress in the 17th Congressional District in Manhattan against the incumbent Rep. Frederic R. Coudert Jr.

The justice said the signatures on Neville's petition "are not authenticated in the manner provided by law" and that the affidavits of subscribing witnesses failed to supply adequate data.

Technician Tells About Precision On A-Bomb Flight

Los Alamos, N. M., Aug. 6 (AP)—It's an old story to Harold M. Agnew—that flight he made seven years ago today when the first A-bomb used in warfare laid waste Hiroshima.

"Beautiful" is the way he describes the clockwork precision of the raid, the perfect weather, the success of the "experiment."

Agnew recalls his part in the mission as "very definitely an experiment." A former resident of Denver, he now is a technical adviser in the office of the director of the Los Alamos Scientific Laboratory, operated by the University of California for the AEC.

"Since we couldn't get the Japanese to cooperate," he explained with a wry grin during an interview, "we had to do the experiment this way."

Flew As Civilian

He was one of four civilians who made the historic trip. Heading the group was Luis Alvarez, now a professor of physics at the University of California, Berkeley, Calif. The other two were Lawrence Johnston, now a physicist at the University of Minnesota, and Bernard Waldman, professor of physics at Notre Dame.

Alvarez, Johnston and Agnew measured effects of the Hiroshima blast. Waldman, in the trailing bomber of the three B-29s in the group, sought, unsuccessfully, to get a high-speed camera record of the blast.

The bomb was carried in a plane flown by Col. Paul Tibbetts. It was crewed entirely by military personnel at the insistance of the military. To have someone aboard who had been active throughout the development of the bomb, Admiral William S. Parsons went along as weaponeer. He was in charge of ordnance aspects at Los Alamos during World War 2.

Recorded Effects

In the second plane were Alvarez, Johnston and Agnew. As Tibbett's plane dropped the bomb and peeled off, the three scientists dropped measuring instruments and their plane went off in the opposite direction. The plane in which Waldman rode stood off at a distance.

The dropped instruments were equipped to send the needed blast information back to Agnew's plane by radio.

"If the blast had been weak," said Agnew, "we would have wanted to know how weak it was in order to find out why."

The experiment met expectations, but that doesn't seem to be the thing that impressed the young scientist.

He was well aware that the mission meant the climax of three years of intensive work by the scientists and engineers working on the Manhattan project. But aside from that, he said:

"I don't remember any special feeling about making the flight. I may have been mildly concerned about the airplane ride—it's a long way." The bomb was assembled and loaded on the Pacific island of Tinian, and the flight meant an ocean round trip of about 2,500 miles.

Just as Planned

"Certainly we were impressed by the bomb blast," Agnew said. "It seemed just as if we were flying down Main street as we cruised toward Japan. Our bombers were streaming back from a fire raid. It seemed like we passed one about every three minutes."

Then he added: "It was a beautiful mission from the technical standpoint.

"We went in just as planned. We were right where we were supposed to be at the right time."

Ex-Bookies Say They Paid Through Gross

New York, Aug. 6 (AP)—Two former bookmakers say they obtained police protection after arranging for monthly payments to ex-bookie Harry Gross or to an alleged Gross employe.

The testimony was heard yesterday at a departmental trial of 34 suspended policemen.

Gross, who reputedly had a 20-million-dollar-a-year Brooklyn gambling empire, has said he paid a million a year for protection of his own operations.

Charged with sharing in this Gross-paid graft, the 34 defendants face dismissal from the force without pensions if found guilty.

Sol (Chesty) Gleicher, a former bookmaker, testified yesterday he had been arrested a number of times while he operated as an independent bookmaker before 1946.

Gleicher said he then became a Gross "partner" and never was arrested again. Gleicher said the partnership consisted of a 50-50 split of his profits with Gross, now in jail, after deductions for expenses. Among these expenses, the witness said, was a payment of $1,000 a month Gross said was for police protection.

Another former bookmaker witness, Samuel Berman, said he "kicked in" $500 a month for police protection to Willi Ricci, allegedly the Gross "paymaster." Berman said he knew Ricci was a Gross employe.

How It All Began

Before taking off from International Airport, New York, August 4, for his first meeting with Breda O'Sullivan, County Kerry, Ireland, Frank Hayostak, of Johnstown, Pa., shows how he placed a letter in a discarded aspirin bottle while returning from Europe on a troopship on Christmas night, 1945. The letter, dropped overboard 100 miles from New York, washed ashore on the southwest Irish coast August 23, 1946 and was found by Breda, a milkmaid. They have corresponded ever since.

Shower of Rocks Baffles Home Owner, Police

Evansville, Ind., Aug. 6 (AP)—For seven successive nights, limestone rocks about the size of a fist have rained down from somewhere onto the roof of Lewis Schattin's farmhouse.

The Schattin farm, five miles north of Evansville, is on level ground, and stands in the open. Neighbors and curiosity seekers have stood guard at the house an in surrounding fields, yet the rockfall continues from an as yet unknown source.

Deputy Sheriff Leonard Denton went out last night and was just as mystified as the next one.

David M. Bigelow, director of education at the Evansville Public Museum, suggested that limestone layers under incinerators sometimes explode.

Lewis thought that interesting, but he has had no fires on the premises.

Taft Backer Loses Bid To Get on N. Y. Ballot

New York, Aug. 6 (AP)—Richard Neville, who defied the state Republican organization to support Sen. Robert A. Taft for the GOP presidention nomination, has lost a legal bid to get on his party's primary ballot for Congress.

Supreme Court Justice Thomas J. Brady yesterday upheld the Board of Elections in its refusal to accept a nomination petition for Neville. The justice dismissed an application by Neville for an order requiring the board to reinstate his petition.

Brady said Neville's petition was "fatally defective" under the state's election law.

Neville had sought the Republican nomination for Congress in the 17th Congressional District in Manhattan against the incumbent Rep. Frederic R. Coudert Jr.

The justice said the signatures on Neville's petition "are not authenticated in the manner provided by law" and that the affidavits of subscribing witnesses failed to supply adequate data.

Technician Tells About Precision On A-Bomb Flight

Los Alamos, N. M., Aug. 6 (AP)—It's an old story to Harold M. Agnew—that flight he made seven years ago today when the first A-bomb used in warfare laid waste Hiroshima.

"Beautiful" is the way he describes the clockwork precision of the raid, the perfect weather, the success of the "experiment."

Agnew recalls his part in the mission as "very definitely an experiment." A former resident of Denver, he now is a technical adviser in the office of the director of the Los Alamos Scientific Laboratory, operated by the University of California for the AEC.

"Since we couldn't get the Japanese to cooperate," he explained with a wry grin during an interview, "we had to do the experiment this way."

Flew As Civilian

He was one of four civilians who made the historic trip. Heading the group was Luis Alvarez, now a professor of physics at the University of California, Berkeley, Calif. The other two were Lawrence Johnston, now a physicist at the University of Minnesota, and Bernard Waldman, professor of physics at Notre Dame.

Alvarez, Johnston and Agnew measured effects of the Hiroshima blast. Waldman, in the trailing bomber of the three B-29s in the group, sought, unsuccessfully, to get a high-speed camera record of the blast.

The bomb was carried in a plane flown by Col. Paul Tibbetts. It was crewed entirely by military personnel at the insistance of the military. To have someone aboard who had been active throughout the development of the bomb, Admiral William S. Parsons went along as weaponeer. He was in charge of ordnance aspects at Los Alamos during World War 2.

Recorded Effects

In the second plane were Alvarez, Johnston and Agnew. As Tibbett's plane dropped the bomb and peeled off, the three scientists dropped measuring instruments and their plane went off in the opposite direction. The plane in which Waldman rode stood off at a distance.

The dropped instruments were equipped to send the needed blast information back to Agnew's plane by radio.

"If the blast had been weak," said Agnew, "we would have wanted to know how weak it was in order to find out why."

The experiment met expectations, but that doesn't seem to be the thing that impressed the young scientist.

He was well aware that the mission meant the climax of three years of intensive work by the scientists and engineers working on the Manhattan project. But aside from that, he said:

"I don't remember any special feeling about making the flight. I may have been mildly concerned about the airplane ride—it's a long way." The bomb was assembled and loaded on the Pacific island of Tinian, and the flight meant an ocean round trip of about 2,500 miles.

Just as Planned

"Certainly we were impressed by the bomb blast," Agnew said.

"It seemed just as if we were flying down Main street as we cruised toward Japan. Our bombers were streaming back from a fire raid. It seemed like we passed one about every three minutes."

Then he added: "It was a beautiful mission from the technical standpoint.

"We went in just as planned. We were right where we were supposed to be at the right time."

DDT Has Simplified Corn Earworm Control

Geneva, N. Y. — The introduction of DDT has done much to simplify the control of the troublesome corn earworm, according to entomologists at the experiment station here.

Control heretofore has depended largely upon the use of mineral oil applied in small doses to the silk channels as the young worms hatched out. However, this is a laborious, time-consuming operation, and an expensive one.

Dusting with DDT when 50 per cent of the silks have appeared with three to four additional applications made at two to three-day intervals has proved highly effective, say the station workers. The chief objective is to keep the silks reasonably well covered with the dust during the period of egg laying and hatching, they state.

Tractor-drawn, row-crop dusting equipment with wide axle clearance for applying dust to sweet corn is now in use and greatly facilitates dusting for earworm.

Various formulations of DDT dust have been tried out in the station tests, but a five per cent dust used at the rate of 50 pounds to the acre for each treatment has given the best control. A one per cent parathion dust also gave good results.

Chemical tests of ears from treated plots at harvest time revealed some insecticide residue on the husks, but husked ears showed only negligible amounts of DDT and none of parathion.

Jacoby on Canasta

EXPERT MUST WATCH HIS MELDING

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

Most Canasta players know that it doesn't pay to put down every meldable card when they are struggling to win the discard pile. Did you ever realize, however, that the same principle may apply even when you are trying to meld out as quickly as possible?

Offhand, it might appear that this is just when you meld everything that you can. Let's take an example to show that appearances are deceptive.

Both sides need 120 for the initial meld, and you eventually put down a joker with four aces from your hand. At his next turn, your partner adds one ace and puts down three kings as an additional meld.

Obviously, you are both playing for a fast out. You have only a six-card hand, so you cannot fight effectively for the discard pile. Your partner has deliberately made an unnecessary meld, so he also is willing to play for out rather than fight for the pile.

When your turn comes, you draw from the stock pile and then hold one king, two queens, two jacks, and a pair of deuces. What should you meld?

Suppose you meld the king, add one deuce to the aces to complete a canasta, meld the other deuce with the pair of queens, discard a jack, and hold one jack. What do you now need to meld out? An ace, a king, a queen, or another wild card.

It would be much the same if you melded the jacks and discarded a queen. Assuming that no queens or jacks have been discarded, this is a toss-up. But don't forget that your discard of a brand new queen or jack may give the discard pile away immediately.

Now suppose you don't meld anything at all. Just discard the king. To begin with, that's a pretty safe discard. It probably won't cost you the pile.

Your partner may draw an ace or a wild card, and may complete the canasta of aces. If he does, you are out at your next turn—no matter what you pick.

If your partner fails to help you, what do you need to meld out? An ace, a queen, a jack, or another wild card. Compare that with the other case—where you needed an ace, a king, a queen, or another wild card.

Cancelling out aces, queens, and wild cards (since you need them in either case), we find that a jack will help you if you don't meld whereas a king will help you if you do meld. There are six jacks as against four kings, so the odds are better if you don't meld.

Mr. Jacoby is unable to answer individual questions on Canasta from readers. However, he will include the most frequently asked questions in his column.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

Pre-emptive Bidding Will Confuse Rival

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

I heartily recommend pre-emptive bids. When you make them properly, you force the proponents to guess. If they double, they may discover that they have given up a game for a paltry 100 points.

If they go on, they may discover, after going down themselves, that they could have beaten you. Moreover, your opponents find it difficult to show new suits and exchange information after pre-emptive bidding.

One word of caution: don't go to the well too often. If you get away with your pre-emptive bid and the opponents persist, let them have their way. Otherwise, you may give them a second chance to choose between a penalty double and a further bid.

In today's hand South got away with his very skimpy pre-emptive bid of three spades. West could have doubled immediately but was not sure that he would get sufficient value. His bid of three no-trump seemed like a reasonable expression of his hand.

North was not satisfied to let the opponents take the game that they obviously could make. He put his neck out on the block by bidding four diamonds. East could have doubled with good effect, but was uncertain and therefore chose to take the sure game at hearts.

North, still not satisfied, tested the opponents' patience once too often. The bid of four spades finally earned the double that North was apparently seeking. Strangely enough, the result didn't please him.

West opened the ace of hearts and continued with the queen when East signaled enthusiastically with the jack of hearts. East overtook the second heart with the king in order to lay down the ace of spades. He then shifted to a low club.

South ducked, and West took the king of clubs. West next cashed the king of spades, and East made the thoughtful discard of the jack of diamonds. East reasoned that West would not have bid three no-trump with a singleton or doubleton in diamonds. Hence it was never going to be necessary for East to refuse a diamond trick.

After drawing dummy's second trump, West switched back to hearts. Now declarer could ruff and draw trumps, but he was bound to lose two more club tricks. He could win only four trumps and the ace of clubs, therefore suffering a penalty of 900 points.

New Peaches Fill Gaps Between Season

Geneva, N. Y.—New varieties of peaches are now available which fill in the gaps between the three sorts that now largely monopolize the field in New York state.

Golden Jubilee, Halehaven, and Elberta in that order of ripening are the leading sorts, with Elberta being grown less than formerly and the two newer varieties gaining in importance. There are other new varieties which ripen nearly three weeks ahead of Golden Jubilee and still other sorts which might fill sizeable gaps between that variety and Halehaven and between Halehaven and Elberta, say fruit specialists at the Experiment Station here.

Three early midseason yellow-fleshed peaches rated worthy of trial by the station fruit men include Redhaven from Michigan and Triogem and Sunhigh from New Jersey. Redhaven comes in just ahead of Golden Jubilee and the other two ripen between that variety and Halehaven.

Raritan Rose, a white-fleshed peach developed by the New Jersey Experiment Station, has performed well at the Experiment Station and ripens about with Golden Jubilee.

New varieties ripening between Redhaven and Halehaven which have shown promise here include Fairhaven and Southland. Golden East, which ripens just after Halehaven, is also promising. But there is a lack of outstanding introductions that come into season between Halehaven and Elberta, say the fruit specialists. Sullivan's Early Elberta and Redelberta are rather small and no better than Elberta in quality as grown in this area.

Probably the best new sort in this season is Kalhaven, but it ripens only three days ahead of Elberta and is inclined to overload and produce small fruits. No variety ripening later than Elberta merits consideration here as it would seldom ripen properly.

Explosives Return

Girvan, Scotland, Aug. 5 (AP)—Britain has been casting something else than bread upon the water — but it is coming right back just the same. So far the tide has delivered more than 200 incendiary bombs, live detonators and various other types of World War 2 ammunition on the beaches of this holiday resort. The beaches, as a precaution, have been closed to the public. The explosive flood is believed to come from an underwater dump where Britain deposited hundreds of tons of surplus war stores back in 1946. The ammunition is being gradually shifted across the ocean floor by the tides until it reaches the beach.

The sheep was domesticated in Asia and Europe before the dawn of history, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

SHOKAN NEWS

Shokan, Aug. 6 — Calling on friends and relatives here Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Chlanda and three children, Charlyse, Bruce and Chips; also Mrs. Bautiste Nadal, all of Poughkeepsie. Mrs. Nadal and Mrs. Chlanda, the former Carmen Lopez, are one time residents of the Coons neighborhood of Shokan. During the day, they visited the Nadal place on the mountain which half a century ago was known as the John Weeks homestead.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Terhune and three children of New York are occupying one of the L. F. Ruckert bungalows while on their annual vacation.

The Rev. Milton Ryan and wife of the Ashokan Methodist parsonage recently were the guests of Camp Juvenile in a unique experience of fellowship with 140 youngsters of various religious faith, and some 40 counsellors. Following supper, Pastor Ryan addressed a group which had assembled in the recreation hall for a religious service. A splendid spirit of religious cooperation and brotherly love was manifest at this inspiring assemblage.

Stone Ridge residents seen browsing at the corner antique store Friday included Lillian Quick, one of Ulster county's foremost collectors of old lamps. Antique shops are springing up all though the mountain townships, a number of them being established in old barns and wagon sheds. Although hundreds of items are bought and sold each day in the summer season, there always seems to be "more where they came from."

Having a birthday Thursday, Aug. 7, is Mrs. Kenneth Davis of the Onteora Trail. The former Doris Elmendorf attended high school in Kingston and was employed uptown for several years before her marriage. All three members of the Davis family have birthdays this month — Kenneth on Tuesday, Aug. 12, and little Stephen who will be three months old August 10 . . . Thursday also marks the 11th wedding anniversary of Eugene and Elsie (Bigelow) McCafferty of the mountain road. The couple, both of New York, were married at Shokan . . . Another marriage August 8, 1941 was that of William W. Murdock of Lomontville and Marie E. Lyons of Ashokan. The Murdocks, who have a son, William, Jr., grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Lyons of Kingston, moved from Shokan to Wappingers Falls several years ago.

Operator Has Busy Time

Centralia, Ill. (AP)—Marie Foltz got experience on her first day at the Valmeyer, Ill., telephone switchboard that would equal that of some veteran "hello" girls. A small tornado roared up the valley into Valmeyer. In quick order the new operator handled fire and ambulance calls before lines went down and her switchboard all but blacked out.

B-R-R-R-R!—When anti-freeze freezes, you know it's cold. Edward Plunkard, a project engineer, holds in one hand a beaker of anti-freeze and in the other a beaker of lubricating oil, both frozen solid in the 90-Below-Zero test laboratory just built by the Perfection Stove Company in Cleveland. In it will be tested for the armed forces, fuels and lubricants, men, materials and metals to see how they react to Arctic conditions. From this research will be gained knowledge to make things easier for men stationed in outposts and weather stations in the vicinity of the North Pole.

Ex-Red Is Happier In Catholic Faith

New York, Aug. 6 (AP) — Dr. Bella V. Dodd, who drifted away from the Roman Catholic Church to become a top woman Communist party leader, has been received back into the Catholic faith.

She and Roman Catholic sources disclosed yesterday that she was baptized on April 8 in St. Patrick's Cathedral after taking weekly instructions from the most Rev. Fulton J. Sheen, auxiliary bishop of New York.

Dr. Dodd, an attorney and former political science teacher at Hunter College, said she is "happier now than * * * ever before."

After becoming a party member in 1944, Dr. Dodd was taken into the Communist National Committee and eventually was considered the foremost woman Red in New York state. She is a former legislative representative of the Teachers Union (Ind.).

In 1949, during the conspiracy trial of 11 top Communist leaders, she was expelled from the party for "conduct or actions detrimental to the working class and the nation * * * as well as the interests of the party."

Sent by Congressman

Dr. Dodd said a congressman friend, unidentified, sent her to Sheen after she spent months tortured by the inner conflict of her ideals and party realities.

Sheen, who heads the Catholic Church Society for the Propagation of the Faith in the United States, also gave religious instructions to two other well-known former Communists who embraced the Catholic faith: Louis F. Budenz, former managing editor of the party organ, "The Daily Worker," and Elizabeth Bentley, self-styled pre-war Soviet spy ring courier.

Both Budenz and Dr. Dodd, a widow, had been born into the Catholic church. Dr. Dodd had to be baptized a second time because her baptismal records could not be found in the parish church of her native Potenza, Italy.

Man Surrenders to Fish

Fernandina Beach, Fla. (AP) — Man and fish changed places in a recent incident along Florida's Buccaneer Trail. A giant silver king tarpoon hooked by W. J. Richards, Jacksonville, fan-tailed up out of the water and landed squarely in another fisherman's small boat. The other man—whose name Richards didn't get — surrendered the dry boat to the fish and promptly took to the ocean. Richards got the fish—an 85-pounder.

Oil Production Record

Baghdad, Iraq (AP)—The Iraq Petroleum Co. has announced that for the first time in history oil production of the two primary producing regions has exceeded one million tons monthly. The record figure was reached during April.

Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER

Two exciting things happened to me today. I received Captain Andrew S. Hickey's book of "The Story of Kingston." It came autographed. Now I am very anxious to start reading it. I see it was dedicated "In memory of Caryl Crawford Hickey." The, appreciation page, is interesting, it reads: "To Mr. Arthur F. Hallinan, city engineer of Kingston, for his aid and assistance in solving problems to lands, maps and private family documents..To the Kingston City Library and the librarian, Miss Mary A Schaeffer, for the loan of valuable historical books and pamphlets...To the Curator, Mrs. Mary Black Terwilliger of the Senate House Museum, for permission to examine original and rare documents relating to the history of Kingston, as well as Ulster county....To the Daughters of the American Revolution for information concerning old Kingston houses."

I know Captain Hickey has been working industriously on his book for a couple of years, and no doubt thought about it for some 20 years before that. A book, of this sort takes years of work and research. In his "Bibliography" or list of books and references in the back of the book, I see it covers three full pages of fine print, and that's a lot of books to go through, especially if they are history books. I notice among his list such old friends as: "The Hudson" by Carl Carmer, "The Beginnings of New York" by Mary Isabella Forsyth, which I just received as a gift from Miss Addie Anderson, and many others.

There are some fine photographs in the book, the one taken of the Senate House was made by Bill Longyear years ago. The "Skillypot" picture is also the best I have ever seen. Carl Weber, downtown pharmacist, has the negative from which I think Capt. Hickey got a copy. Most of these old negatives are gone and the photos themselves often have to be copied. Although the other day Mrs. Longyear, widow of the photographer, visited with me and told me she still had a large number of negatives. I think her husband's photos of the replica of the Half Moon and the Clermont, both taken while the ships were in motion on their own power are really something worth having.

My other pleasant surprise was a visit to the Art Exhibition at the George Washington School. When Harry Rigby dropped in the other day and heard I had not seen it as I just couldn't find time from the store, he said he would drive me up so at least I could have a quick look at the some $200,000 collection, first time in the history to be brought to Kingston. There were a few strangers at the exhibition when I was there. I hear people from all over have heard about it and are making it their business to drive hundreds of miles to see the collection which has been loaned by a number of collectors and museums.

I cannot hastily or in several columns describe the paintings. Each in a story in itself. The interesting background of the artist and painting is on a printed sheet on the wall. Just the "Marius on the Ruins of Carthage" by our Vanderlyn is worth the price of admission and the trip there. Napoleon gave it a gold medal. To my way of thinking Vanderlyn painted Marius to look quite a lot like Napoleon. The Rip Van Winkle story by Browere from the Maxim Karolik collection should appeal to the younger generation. Anyway, if I get a chance I am going again before it closes in the middle of August.

Bumper Crop Predicted

Damascus, Syria (AP)—Despite the threat of a locust plague, Syrian agricultural authorities are predicting a bumper harvest for Syria that will allow the export of wheat and barley. The Ministry of Agriculture recently announced that Syria's crops would be harvested before the locust threat could materialize. It is estimated that Syria will produce nearly 800,000 tons of wheat this year, leaving approximately 250,000 tons for export. Barley is expected to reach 250,000 tons, with 75,000 tons for export.

UNCLE EF

It's funny the effect national political conventions have on different people. Since one delegate from our county got back home, he can't order a hamburger at the lunch wagon without first singing the Star Spangled Banner and making a speech. Another one is waiting until sentiment cools off before he comes home and has to explain his vote.

RUMPUS ROOM NOT FOR RECEIVING!

A reader this morning explains: "Several of our friends have so-called "rumpus rooms" or finished basements in which they do all of their entertaining. I can see the sense of using this room for an occasional big party but they never see anyone in any other place! In many of these houses to which I have been invited time after time, I don't even know what the living room looks like! To me a cellar is a cellar no matter how it is fixed up! It is always damp and musty and the ceiling is often uncomfortably close to my head. Further than this, the bare wooden chairs and bare benches against the walls are painfully uncomfortable. Altogether I think this whole idea very inhospitable and suggests that her guests are not well-behaved enough to sit in the living room. I would like your opinion of this."

Never having heard of anyone's using a "rumpus room" except as a children's playroom or the family's gymnasium, I cannot imagine any grown members of a family receiving visitors in it any more than receiving them in the laundry or up in the attic!

Winner Keeps Prize

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it proper for those who win prizes for games played at a stork shower to turn them over to the guest of honor? This is the custom in our community and I don't think it is fair since the guest of honor has already received many presents and the persons who win prizes should certainly be able to keep them. What is your opinion?

Answer: Under any circumstances, players of games whether for prizes or money should never have to give their winnings away!

Not 'Miss'

Dear Mrs. Post: A friend of mine just recently obtained a divorce and was granted permission to use her maiden name. When writing to her, should I address her as Miss or Mrs.?

Answer: "Mrs." Unless her marriage has been annulled—meaning that it did not exist—it is impossible to call any ex-wife or widow a spinster.

* * *

Should a lady offer her hand when greeting friends or being introduced. Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail. However, her leaflet E-17, "Introductions," answers these questions fully. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to her, care of The Freeman, P.O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

Texas Asks Aid In Identification

Waco, Tex., Aug. 6 (AP) — The Texas Highway Patrol appealed today for aid in identifying dead and finding out how many were killed in Monday morning's tragic bus collision near here.

Only 14 of 28 bodies recovered from the charred, twisted wreckage of two Greyhound buses have been identified. Three other persons were known dead. And a pile of blackened bones and black, shriveled flesh defied identification.

The accident occurred shortly after 5 a. m. (EST) Monday in the predawn blackness. The site was a straight stretch of highway near the crest of a slight incline on U. S. Highway 81, seven miles south of here.

How and why the accident occurred still were other big questions. Both drivers were among the known dead, although their bodies have not been identified.

Appeal Is Made

Capt. Sam Gardner of the Highway Patrol's Waco district last night made the appeal for help. If anybody has called Waco, he said, to ask about a person who might have been on one of the buses and later found they were not a wreck victim, the patrol should be notified.

Authorities said again today that it may take days to identify the rest of the dead. Some may never be identified. Nobody knows exactly who was on the buses, or how many.

But the grim, hopeless task continued today while relatives of the missing, army and air force identification crews, and state and local police did all possible—kept trying. All the 25 injured were removed from the critical list yesterday.

Farouk Loses Vast Holdings on Nile

Cairo, Egypt, Aug. 6 (AP)—Exiled ex-King Farouk's vast holdings in Egypt were ordered impounded last night by the reform government that kicked him off his throne. Estimates of the pudgy king's loss ranged as high as two billion dollars.

That enormous estimate stemmed from unofficial reports long current that the royal family owns one-third of Egypt's six million arable acres. Such a chunk of the fertile Nile valley would be worth at least that much.

Details of the former monarch's fortune have been a closely-guarded secret. High government officials admitted they had no complete listing on his properties, but hoped to formulate one from papers seized when Farouk abdicated and left Egypt.

The cabinet's order impounding Farouk's Egyptian wealth gave no indication of the plans for it. It is generally believed, however, that the government will distribute the properties as part of a vast land reform program now being discussed by Premier Aly Maher and his cabinet.

In exile on the Isle of Capri last week, Farouk told newsmen he now was a comparatively poor man, had not taken a fortune out of Egypt and had no fortune stored up outside his native land. Previously it had been widely rumored that he had vast investments abroad.

Taken to Hospital

A pickup truck operated by Alfred Ose, 44, of Highland, ran off the highway on Riverside road north of Highland early today and struck a tree, it was reported by Highland state police. Trooper Michael Lisman, who investigated the accident, said that Ose was removed to Vassar Brothers Hospital, Poughkeepsie, with head injuries and lacerations.

Actress Picks Round-the-Clock Wear

For her own summer wardrobe, actress Jane Wyman has chosen these fashions, all by California designers. She wears (left) a late-day dress in lace with low-cut, wide neckline, brief sleeves and full, stiffened skirt. Circus theme is borrowed (center) for striped pink, white and charcoal organdie blouse worn with charcoal grey skirt in glazed cotton. Skirt has a high rising band that buttons in front center. Short dinner dress (right) is in beige spun rayon-and-cotton. Brief bolero covers halter-top dress that can go dancing. It has low neckline filled in with pleated organdie—By Gaile Dugas, NEA Woman's Editor.

Military Staff Is Being Discussed

Honolulu, Aug. 6 (AP)—Foreign Ministers of Australia, New Zealand and the U. S. today headed into talks on formation of a military staff for the Anzus mutual defense pact.

One other item remains on the agenda of the ministers' closed session—relations of the Anzus nations with other nations and regional associations in the Pacific.

The conference was due to end today.

A spokesman said a discussion of Pacific security problems that began yesterday would continue this morning.

U. S. Secretary of State Dean Acheson, chairman of the conference, and Richard G. Casey and T. Clifton Webb, Australia and New Zealand ministers of external affairs, respectively, spent seven hours yesterday discussing areas and situations of common concern. Details were not announced.

An Australian spokesman said there was a difference of emphasis in some of the views but no disagreement.

An American spokesman added that the exchange of views was frank but no decisions were sought or taken.

Ninth Asks Divorce

New York, Aug. 6 (AP)—The ninth Mrs. Tommy Manville, a bride of 27 days, left by plane for Mexico today to obtain a divorce from the 58-year-old asbestos heir. Mrs. Manville, the former Anita Eden, said Manville had made a "quite satisfactory" financial arrangement. "He gave me $50,000 to get the divorce and a $50,000 bonus," she said. "What was the bonus for?" asked a reporter. "That's just his way of fooling around," she said. "What a sense of humor the man has!"

The Mature Parent

Understand Your Own Motives to Avoid Misjudging Child's

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

Once there was a little girl named Joyce whose mother was a pretty and much-flattered actress. Her mother was also very impulsive and careless. However, since it was to the material profit of less prosperous friends and relatives to call her impulsive carelessness "generosity," she got to believing this herself. Gradually she learned to take great pride in her reputation for "generosity."

When Joyce was eight years old, her mother gave her a string of small carved jade beads. They were beautiful and Joyce, who grew up to be an artist, loved them dearly.

One day when her mother was dressing to go out, she said suddenly to Joyce, "Where are your beads? I want to wear them today."

A look of stubborn resistance appeared on Joyce's face. Her mother stared at her in horror and burst into tears. "Oh, to think that I should have such a selfish child!" she cried. "When I think of how kind and generous I am to you, I wonder that you dare refuse me a loan of your beads."

This experience deeply impressed Joyce. When she was a grown woman, her unfortunate inability to say "No" to anyone who wanted to take something from her without giving anything in return was such a problem that she had to seek professional help with it.

It was during this time that she first realized that her refusal to lend her beads had been based on a sound practical reason. She realized that she had not been "selfish" at all. She had merely been afraid that her careless, impulsive mother would either lose her beads or give them away to the first person who happened to admire them.

Thus, this misjudgment of Joyce's motive in refusing to lend her beads had great influence upon her life. She spent many years of it trying to disprove a false charge of selfishness.

Our child guidance books endlessly emphasize the importance of learning why Jimmy chooses an undesirable friend, why Mary is always borrowing her sister's clothes, why Sally boasts of dates she does not have. What they do not tell us so often is that we have little hope indeed of learning any of these "whys" unless we have had some experience in unearthing our own.

Without this information, the books' advice only frustrates us and makes us anxious.

How could we possibly expect Joyce's mother to have been interested in her daughter's motive when she had built her own life on evasion of her own? To the end of her days, Joyce's mother firmly believed that her steadily diminishing fortunes were due to her excessive generosity to others. She would have violently resisted anyone who suggested that carelessness and an appetite for flattery were responsible.

Like Joyce, many of us operate on misjudgments that we are still trying to disprove, though we think we are grownup and independent.

Because someone once called us "lazy," we take pride in overwork. Because we were once falsely accused of carelessness with truth, we rush to tell everything we know to anyone who asks us a question. Because a blunt and honest comment was severely reproved as "impudence," we find it almost impossible to speak our mind to our child.

Misjudgment of motives in children is destructive and if we wish to spare them, we have no alternative to understanding how misjudgment of our own motives has influenced us.

Two New Cases Of Polio Reported; County Total 11

Two new cases of poliomyelitis, both residents, were reported by the Ulster County Health Department this week, one this morning, a two-year-old girl, and one August 4.

Ulster county has accounted for 11 of the 240 case of poliomyelitis reported this year in counties outside of New York city.

Of the local cases, 10 were residents and one non-resident, according to the Ulster County Health Department.

The New York State Health Department reported from Albany that 41 new cases were recorded last week. No new cases were reported in Ulster county for the week ending August 2, however.

The year's total to date for the state, not including New York city, is 32 below the figure for the corresponding period a year ago, the state department reported.

Suffolk county reported nine new cases for the week ending August 2. Other counties reporting cases were Westchester, 7; Nassau and Orange, 6 each; Erie, 3; Onondaga and Sullivan, 2 each, and Broome, Jefferson, Lewis, Otsego, Schenectady and Washington, 1 each.

B29 Crashes in Japan

Tokyo, Aug. 6 (AP)—A bomb-laden B-29 Superfort, bound for North Korea, crashed and burned tonight four minutes after it took off from Yokota Air Base west of Tokyo. Far East Air Forces headquarters said nine crewmen made low-altitude parachute leaps before the crash but the pilot and two other crew members were missing. The pilot released the bombs with fuses inactivated before the impact. Police said one exploded in some unexplained manner and slightly injured an elderly Japanese man.

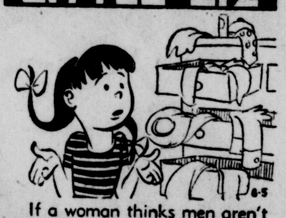

Gold Mine Is Blasted

Tokyo, Aug. 6 (AP)—The Far East Air Forces disclosed today its B-29 Superforts, bombing by radar last night, blasted the Communists biggest gold mine in North Korea. The mine is at Hoechang, east of Kangdong in North Central Korea. It also produces tungsten (wolfram), a critical metal used in lamp filaments and steel alloys. The bomber crews, from the 307th Bomb Wing on Okinawa and the 98th Bomb Wing in Japan, were unable to report results because of the darkness.

Quarantine Still Holds

Chicago, Aug. 6 (AP)—A quarantine which prohibits shipping hogs out of the union stock yards still was in effect today. The ban was put into effect Tuesday after a shipment of hogs showed symptoms similar to a swine virus disease called vesicular exanthema. This meant outside order buyers still were out of the market. They normally buy a fourth of the available supply for shipment to slaughterers in other cities.

New Jewelry Store Opens

Saccoman Opens Jewelry Store At 580 Broadway

Saccoman's Jewelers and Silversmiths will open at 580 Broadway near the underpass in the near future, it was announced today.

Anthony G. Saccoman, who has been in the restaurant business in Kingston for the past 16 years as proprietor of Tony's Pizzeria, is owner of the new store which seeks, by its attractive glass front, to add to the architectural attractiveness of the underpass area.

Saccoman said that Myron Oppenheimer of Kingston would manage the new store which will carry a complete line of jewelry and silver, as well as a gift and china department.

Saccoman, who owns the building at 580-584 Broadway, housing the restaurant, the Ketterer Bake Shop and Ideal Tonsorial barber shop, said that the building had been completely remodeled. Colored glass blocks make an attractive street front. White blocks have been used for the bake shop, green ones for the barber shop and maroon for the jewelry store.

Saccoman said that the store would offer the very best merchandise and would seek to render the most efficient and agreeable service.

Saccoman, a native of East Kingston, married the former Mary H. Carpino, also of Kingston. They have one son, Attorney Joseph D. Saccoman of Kingston and a daughter, Rose Marie Saccoman, a senior at New Rochelle College.

Are Major Factor

In his speeches Williams alleged:

1. That it took the government 20 years to collect some $25,000 of taxes due from Frank Costello, gambler-overlord, and that Costello never was prosecuted for neglecting to file reports of taxable income for six successive years, 1926 through 1931.

2. That Philip F. Kastel, an associate of Costello, benefitted from orders in 1942 and 1943 forgiving $463,199 of taxes and penalties.

3. That $2,230,748 of tax claims against William Lias, operator of the Wheeling Downs, Va., race track, were allowed "to gather dust" for three years in the Justice Department before vigorous moves were made to collect the sum. He termed Lias a gambler and former bootlegger.

Never Checked Gross

4. That the Revenue Bureau never checked into the income tax returns of Harry Gross, star witness in the current bribery trials of a group of New York city police officials.

5. That the late Al (Scarface) Capone and other members of the old Capone gang in Chicago settled $119,367 of delinquent tax claims in 1942 for $30,000.

6. That Jake (Greasy Thumb) Guzik, Capone's treasurer, settled $892,000 of tax claims the same year for $100,000.

7. That Ralph Capone, brother of Al, was allowed to keep $92,914 in delinquent tax claims and penalties dangling for 25 years without prosecution and that so far as he knows, they still have not been paid.

Boy Stumbles Into Car, Has No Apparent Injuries

A four-year-old boy stumbled down an embankment into the path of a 1950 station wagon at 5:30 a. m. today on Route 52 west of Greenfield Park, Highland state police said.

Trooper E. P. Shannon, who investigated, reported that George Serota of 442 East 95th street, Brooklyn, was preparing to cross the highway from east to west when he slipped into the path of a vehicle operated by Louis Halprin, 56, of 23 Cottage street, Monticello, who was proceeding north.

Scientific Chiropractic

W. J. Sussin

Sixty years ago Dr. Daniel D. Palmer accidentally discovered Chiropractic. Through the years, it has undergone many progressive stages, until today it is the leading non-medical healing art of the world, boasting over 30,000,000 patients.

The scientific Chiropractor now uses the neurocalometer, an instrument designed to locate the exact point of interference to the nervous system. This interference which is the first stage of all disease causes a decrease in normal body function. He then uses precision X-ray to establish what vertebra of the spinal column is causing this decrease in normal body function.

Two New Cases Of Polio Reported; County Total 11

Two new cases of poliomyelitis, both residents, were reported by the Ulster County Health Department this week, one this morning, a two-year-old girl, and one August 4.

Ulster county has accounted for 11 of the 240 case of poliomyelitis reported this year in counties outside of New York city.

Of the local cases, 10 were residents and one non-resident, according to the Ulster County Health Department.

The New York State Health Department reported from Albany that 41 new cases were recorded last week. No new cases were reported in Ulster county for the week ending August 2, however.

The year's total to date for the state, not including New York city, is 32 below the figure for the corresponding period a year ago, the state department reported.

B29 Crashes in Japan

Tokyo, Aug. 6 (AP)—A bomb-laden B-29 Superfort, bound for North Korea, crashed and burned tonight four minutes after it took off from Yokota Air Base west of Tokyo. Far East Air Forces headquarters said nine crewmen made low-altitude parachute leaps before the crash but the pilot and two other crew members were missing. The pilot released the bombs with fuses inactivated before the impact. Police said one exploded in some unexplained manner and slightly injured an elderly Japanese man.

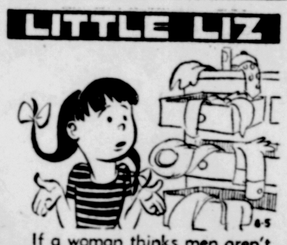

Gold Mine Is Blasted

Tokyo, Aug. 6 (AP)—The Far East Air Forces disclosed today its B-29 Superforts, bombing by radar last night, blasted the Communists biggest gold mine in North Korea. The mine is at Hoechang, east of Kangdong in North Central Korea. It also produces tungsten (wolfram), a critical metal used in lamp filaments and steel alloys. The bomber crews, from the 307th Bomb Wing on Okinawa and the 98th Bomb Wing in Japan, were unable to report results because of the darkness.

Quarantine Still Holds

Chicago, Aug. 6 (AP)—A quarantine which prohibits shipping hogs out of the union stock yards still was in effect today. The ban was put into effect Tuesday after a shipment of hogs showed symptoms similar to a swine virus disease called vesicular exanthema. This meant outside order buyers still were out of the market. They normally buy a fourth of the available supply for shipment to slaughterers in other cities.

New Jewelry Store Opens

Saccoman Opens Jewelry Store At 580 Broadway

Saccoman's Jewelers and Silversmiths will open at 580 Broadway near the underpass in the near future, it was announced today.

Anthony G. Saccoman, who has been in the restaurant business in Kingston for the past 16 years as proprietor of Tony's Pizzeria, is owner of the new store which seeks, by its attractive glass front, to add to the architectural attractiveness of the underpass area.

Saccoman said that Myron Oppenheimer of Kingston would manage the new store which will carry a complete line of jewelry and silver, as well as a gift and china department.

Saccoman, who owns the building at 580-584 Broadway, housing the restaurant, the Ketterer Bake Shop and Ideal Tonsorial barber shop, said that the building had been completely remodeled. Colored glass blocks make an attractive street front. White blocks have been used for the bake shop, green ones for the restaurant, blue ones for the barber shop and maroon for the jewelry store.

Saccoman said that the store would offer the very best merchandise and would seek to render the most efficient and agreeable service.

Saccoman, a native of East Kingston, married the former Mary H. Carpino, also of Kingston. They have one son, Attorney Joseph D. Saccoman of Kingston and a daughter, Rose Marie Saccoman, a senior at New Rochelle College.

Delaware Senator

Are Major Factor

Williams' lone-hand investigations were a major factor in uncovering tax scandals which caused shakeups in the Revenue Bureau and Justice Department earlier this year.

In his speeches Williams alleged:

1. That it took the government 20 years to collect some $25,000 of taxes due from Frank Costello, gambler-overlord, and that Costello never was prosecuted for neglecting to file reports of taxable income for six successive years, 1926 through 1931.

2. That Philip F. Kastel, an associate of Costello, benefitted from orders in 1942 and 1943 forgiving $463,199 of taxes and penalties.

3. That $2,230,748 of tax claims against William Lias, operator of the Wheeling Downs, Va., race track, were allowed "to gather dust" for three years in the Justice Department before vigorous moves were made to collect the sum. He termed Lias a gambler and former bootlegger.

Never Checked Gross

4. That the Revenue Bureau never checked into the income tax returns of Harry Gross, star witness in the current bribery trials of a group of New York city police officials.

5. That the late Al (Scarface) Capone and other members of the old Capone gang in Chicago settled $119,367 of delinquent tax claims in 1942 for $30,000.

6. That Jake (Greasy Thumb) Guzik, Capone's treasurer, settled $892,000 of tax claims the same year for $100,000.

7. That Ralph Capone, brother of Al, was allowed to keep $92,914 in delinquent tax claims and penalties dangling for 25 years without prosecution and that so far as he knows, they still have not been paid.

Boy Stumbles Into Car, Has No Apparent Injuries

A four-year-old boy stumbled down an embankment into the path of a 1950 station wagon at 5:30 a. m. today on Route 52 west of Greenfield Park, Highland state police said.

Trooper E. P. Shannon, who investigated, reported that George Serota of 442 East 95th street, Brooklyn, was preparing to cross the highway from east to west when he slipped into the path of a vehicle operated by Louis Halprin, 56, of 23 Cottage street, Monticello, who was proceeding north.

Trooper Shannon said that the child, who was treated by an Ellenville physician, suffered no apparent injuries.

Scientific Chiropractic

W. J. Sussin

Sixty years ago Dr. Daniel D. Palmer accidentally discovered Chiropractic. Through the years, it has undergone many progressive stages, until today it is the leading non-medical healing art of the world, boasting over 30,000,000 patients.

The scientific Chiropractor now uses the neurocalometer, an instrument designed to locate the exact point of interference to the nervous system. This interference which is the first stage of all disease causes a decrease in normal body function. He then uses precision X-ray to establish what vertebra of the spinal column is causing this decrease in normal body function.

KAA All Stars Defeat Queen City, 4-2, to Move Toward Finals

Van Etten Checks Threat in 5th Inning; Steltz is Winner as Armstrong Homers

More than 1200 fans set a tournament record for attendance and mighty Hobart Armstrong pounded the first homer of the competition as the KAA All Stars moved toward the District 3 Little League finals with a 4 to 2 triumph over the Queen City All Stars of Poughkeepsie, yesterday at the 156th FA diamond.

Big Dan Steltz was the victim of two unearned runs in four innings of play but when he encountered trouble in the fifth, Tom Van Etten moved in from second base for a superb relief stint.

With runners on first and second, none out and a 3-0 count on Joe Molinaro, Van Etten relieved the faltering Steltz and pitched out of the jam without damage. He also stopped the Bridge City outfit cold in the sixth inning and racked up two strikeouts.

Steltz Fans Seven

Steltz permitted only two hits and struck out seven in the four innings plus he worked, while Kingston collected seven blows off Alan Smith, including a double and single by Pete Esposito and two singles by Big Gene Nagele, the burly catcher.

As usual, wild pitches and errors figured in the scoring. Both of the Queen City tallies were unearned.

Dom Cocco, Queen City second baseman, forced Gene Fusaro in the first inning, went to second on a wild pitch. Joe Molinaro singled him to third and Pete Esposito's miscue permitted him to score.

The Poughkeepsie scoring closed out in the third when Bob Pratt's error gave Joe Molinaro a life. Steltz wild pitched him to third and he scored on Alan Smith's single.

Cocco's error put leadoff Esposito on the bases in the KAA first. George Uhl slapped a grounder through Cocco's legs for the second error by the lad on the first two Kingston batters. The ball sailed into right centerfield and Esposito made it all the way home.

Kingston Rally

Three wild pitches by Alan Smith figured in Kingston's fourth inning rally. He sandwiched one between singles by Gene Nagele and Tom Van Etten for the first run of the frame and then wild pitched Van Etten home with two more wild heaves. Armstrong, who had been dropped to eighth spot in the batting order, put the stamp of authenticity on the third run with a towering blast over the right centerfield fence. A spectator caught the ball on the fly.

The two Queen City safeties went to Jo Molinaro, a pitcher playing centerfield, and Alan Smith, pitcher of record for the game.

The tournament resumes today at 5:45 p. m. with Hopewell Junction facing the Poughkeepsie American League All Stars in an all-Dutchess county skirmish.

Tourist Business Declines

Mexico City (AP)—The tourist business, which puts the butter on Mexico's daily bread, shows signs of withering under European competition and high prices here. Even with the big Rotary and Lions international conventions, tourist entries are only a few hundred above last year's average. There was also a momentary slump in the tourist business immediately after the disturbances following the recent presidential elections. Any falling off in the tourist business would be a serious threat to Mexico's economy and would force Mexico to cut down on her purchases abroad.

Jones Dairy Nips Boulevard for Third Straight, 4-3

Jones Steals Home After Squeeze Ties Score in Fifth

Modica Registers Third Victory

Jones Dairy played cat and mouse with Boulevard Gulf in yesterday's City League contest. They let the Gulfmen build pipe dreams with a three-run rally in the first inning and then literally stole the game from them, 4-3, in the fifth inning.

The victory was Jones Dairy's third straight in the second round of play and unless something is done about it in a hurry, the twilight circuit will have no playoff for the regular title.

Bob Graves singled to launch the Jones rally and Jones beat out a bunt. Both advanced a notch on a Tommy Maines fly to deep left. Bob Shelightner dropped a perfect squeeze bunt to send Graves across with the tying marker. John Berardi, returning to action after being out nearly two months with an injury, walked and took second unmolested.

Modica Wins Third

Jerry Bechtold had a 2-2 count on the batter when he took a full windup and that's when Jones streaked in front third base for a clean steal of home. Fisher stopped the Gulfmen in the top of the sixth to preserve Joe Modica's third victory of the season.

Landers was touched for three runs in the first, although Boulevard collected only three hits before he retired with one out in the fourth.

With two out and O. Smith on second, Barringer stroked a run-scoring single; Fautz doubled to left, Bechtold walked and Barringer stole home on a hotly disputed play at the plate. When Shelightner tossed the ball to the ground after the call, Fautz went to third. On the play on Bechtold going to second, Fautz crossed with the third run.

Tommy Maines' bases-loaded single scored the first two Jones runs in the third. While Boulevards blew scoring chances in almost every inning, the Joneses muffed a good one in the second when Maines singled with two outs and two walks loaded the sacks. Landers fanned for the third out.

Billows Safely 'in' National Amateur; Hawaiian Golfer Sets Pace With 134

New York, Aug. 6 (AP)—More than 1,000 were called but just 175 lucky ones were chosen today to make the trek to Seattle for the National Amateur golf championship on Aug. 18-23.

And if there is going to be a dark horse in the field of 200 at tee-off time—there were 25 exemptions—he will be 35-year-old Charles Makaiwa, the champion of Hawaii, who showed them all how it was out on the Pacific by firing an eight-under-par 68-66—134 at the Waialae Country Club in Honolulu yesterday.

So the members of the America's Cup teams of the United States, Canada and Mexico, all of whom were exempt from qualifying, will have something to look forward to when they meet Makaiwa. The United States team includes such worthies as defending champion Billy Maxwell, British Amateur champion Harvie Ward and former British titleholder, Frank Stranahan.

Tommy Goodwin, whose 137 led the strong contingent in White Plains, was No. 3 in the qualifying.

Samsonville Ties In Olive League

Samsonville trounced West Shokan, 8 to 2, behind the three-hit pitching of Pete Keator to knock the ertswhile league leaders out of the unbeaten ranks and create a tie between the teams at two wins and one defeat.

Keator trailed 1-0 at the end of two because of Bob Whispell's homer but Buddy Eckert, West Shokan pitcher, was hit hard after that inning and Samsonville scored in the next five times at bat.

Lilja, the Samsonville first sacker, stroked three singles in four trips to the plate, with Keator and C. Quick each collecting two safeties.

Hen Mothers Puppies

Koomo, Ind., Aug. 6 (AP)—Since Susie was something less than affectionate as a mother, something had to be done about her nine English Shepherd pups. So it was Biddy, a friendly hen, that moved into the doghouse to warm the pups under her wings. Susie came around only at feeding time. Last week Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Vogley forced a separation—the pups, three weeks old, were playfully chewing on Biddy's legs and biting out her tail feathers. Biddy went on a hunger strike. The Vogleys relented today and re-united them.

Dodger Stars Map Busy Road Schedule

The Brooklyn Dodgers' "Stars of Tomorrow" a wealth of high school and college talent that will make an appearance in Kingston on Aug. 20 has an extensive exhibition schedule lined up along the Eastern seaboard.

Composed of 16 players between the ages of 17 and 21 players who survived tryouts involving more than 425 youngsters from New Jersey, Long Island, Westchester and all of New York city, the 1952 edition of "Stars of Tomorrow" is rated the strongest in the long history of the club.

The players were selected by four Dodger scouts—Alex Campanis, Art Dede, Buck Lai, the Hawaiian and A. B. "Turk" Karam, who is well known in Kingston.

The team opened its tour in Pittsfield on Monday and played in Glens Falls Tuesday and Amsterdam yesterday. They are scheduled in Watertown on Aug. 7 and 8.

After this trip, the "Stars of Tomorrow" return to Ebbets Field for a brief respite, resuming activities on Aug. 11 for games in Lancaster, Pa.; York, Pa.; Trenton and Somerville, N. J., Washington, Baltimore and Yonkers, before reaching municipal stadium here on Aug. 20.

A one-day Dodger tryout camp will be conducted by Art Dede and Bruck Lai at the stadium on Aug. 20, with the baseball game that night.

The Kingston club will be a combination of American Legion Junior players and other area talent within the age limit.

Two Score Aces In World-Telly

Elmsford, Aug. 6 (AP)—The odds were nearly 12,000 to 1 that nobody would score an ace in the New York World-Telegram and Sun's annual hole-in-one golf tournament. The odds on two aces in the same day? No one figured that out.

But two did accomplish the feat yesterday on the Knollwood Country Club's 125-yard 19th hole. Stockbroker Ernest Grauer of Yonkers, N. Y., did it first, thanks to a piece of luck. His ball hit a fence 12 feet beyond the cup and rebounded into the hole. Ralph Muranelli of New York did his legitimately. His ball landed in the cup on the fly.

In previous 18 years of the tourney some 14,320 golfers made only six holes-in-one. A field of 228 competed yesterday.

Three Kingstonians — Burt Haver, James A. Dwyer and Charles J. Tiano—competed yesterday without much luck. Dwyer reached the green twice, while Haver and Tiano made it with one each. All four balls were outside the 10-foot circle.

KAA All Stars Defeat Queen City, 4-2, to Move Toward Finals

Van Etten Checks Threat in 5th Inning; Steltz is Winner as Armstrong Homers

More than 1200 fans set a tournament record for attendance and mighty Hobart Armstrong pounded the first homer of the competition as the KAA All Stars moved toward the District 3 Little League finals with a 4 to 2 triumph over the Queen City All Stars of Poughkeepsie, yesterday at the 156th FA diamond.

Big Dan Steltz was the victim of two unearned runs in four innings of play but when he encountered trouble in the fifth, Tom Van Etten moved in from second base for a superb relief stint.

With runners on first and second, none out and a 3-0 count on Joe Molinaro, Van Etten relieved the faltering Steltz and pitched out of the jam without damage. He also stopped the Bridge City outfit cold in the sixth inning and racked up two strikeouts.

Steltz Fans Seven

Steltz permitted only two hits and struck out seven in the four innings plus he worked, while Kingston collected seven blows off Alan Smith, including a double and single by Pete Esposito and two singles by Big Gene Nagele, the burly catcher.

As usual, wild pitches and errors figured in the scoring. Both of the Queen City tallies were unearned.

Dom Cocco, Queen City second baseman, forced Gene Fusaro in the first inning, went to second on a wild pitch. Joe Molinaro singled him to third and Pete Esposito's miscue permitted him to score.

The Poughkeepsie scoring closed out in the third when Bob Pratt's error gave Joe Molinaro a life. Steltz wild pitched him to third and he scored on Alan Smith's single.

Cocco's error put leadoff Esposito on the bases in the KAA first. George Uhl slapped a grounder through Cocco's legs for the second error by the lad on the first two Kingston batters. The ball sailed into right centerfield and Esposito made it all the way home.

Kingston Rally

Three wild pitches by Alan Smith figured in Kingston's fourth inning rally. He sandwiched one between singles by Gene Nagele and Tom Van Etten for the first run of the frame and then wild pitched Van Etten home with two more wild heaves. Armstrong, who had been dropped to eighth spot in the batting order, put the stamp of authenticity on the third run with a towering blast over the right centerfield fence. A spectator caught the ball on the fly.

The two Queen City safeties went to Jo Molinaro, a pitcher playing centerfield, and Alan Smith, pitcher of record for the game.

The tournament resumes today at 5:45 p. m. with Hopewell Junction facing the Poughkeepsie American League All Stars in an all-Dutchess county skirmish.

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 6 (AP)—Junior baseball teams from White Plains and Rochester will meet Saturday at Doubleday Field in Cooperstown in a contest for the state American Legion championship.

Tourist Business Declines

Mexico City (AP)—The tourist business, which puts the butter on Mexico's daily bread, shows signs of withering under European competition and high prices here. Even with the big Rotary and Lions international conventions, tourist entries are only a few hundred above last year's average. There was also a momentary slump in the tourist business immediately after the disturbances following the recent presidential elections. Any falling off in the tourist business would be a serious threat to Mexico's economy and would force Mexico to cut down on her purchases abroad.

Japanese Settle Down

Tokyo (AP)—A 33-year-old Japanese from Okinawa reports that 164 last-ditch troops from the vanquished Japanese army had settled down among the Okinawans and made their homes on the island. Asao Wataguchi said on a recent visit to Japan that the army survivors wanted him to inquire about war pensions and disposition of the remains of Japan's war dead still on the island, which has become a major American base.

Jones Dairy Nips Boulevard for Third Straight, 4-3

Jones Steals Home After Squeeze Ties Score in Fifth

Modica Registers Third Victory

Jones Dairy played cat and mouse with Boulevard Gulf in yesterday's City League contest. They let the Gulfmen build pipe dreams with a three-run rally in the first inning and then literally stole the game from them, 4-3, in the fifth inning.

The victory was Jones Dairy's third straight in the second round of play and unless something is done about it in a hurry, the twilight circuit will have no playoff for the regular title.

Trailing 3-2 with Tommy Fisher pitching in relief of Joe Modica, the Dairymen staged one of their characteristic rallies climaxed by a steal of home by Nippy Jones, the Dairymen's third sacker.

Bob Graves singled to launch the Jones rally and Jones beat out a bunt. Both advanced a notch on a Tommy Maines fly to deep left. Bob Shelightner dropped a perfect squeeze bunt to send Graves across with the tying marker. John Berardi, returning to action after being out nearly two months with an injury, walked and took second unmolested.

Modica Wins Third

Jerry Bechtold had a 2-2 count on the batter when he took a full windup and that's when Jones streaked in front third base for a clean steal of home. Fisher stopped the Gulfmen in the top of the sixth to preserve Joe Modica's third victory of the season.

Landers was touched for three runs in the first, although Boulevard collected only three hits before he retired with one out in the fourth.

With two out and O. Smith on second, Barringer stroked a run-scoring single; Fautz doubled to left, Bechtold walked and Barringer stole home on a hotly disputed play at the plate. When Shelightner tossed the ball to the ground after the call, Fautz went to third. On the play on Bechtold going to second, Fautz crossed with the third run.

Tommy Maines' bases-loaded single scored the first two Jones runs in the third. While Boulevards blew scoring chances in almost every inning, the Joneses muffed a good one in the second when Maines singled with two outs and two walks loaded the sacks. Landers fanned for the third out.

Maines collected two of the five Jones safeties.

Billows Safely 'in' National Amateur; Hawaiian Golfer Sets Pace With 134

New York, Aug. 6 (AP)—More than 1,000 were called but just 175 lucky ones were chosen today to make the trek to Seattle for the National Amateur golf championship on Aug. 18-23.

And if there is going to be a dark horse in the field of 200 at tee-off time—there were 25 exemptions—he will be 35-year-old Charles Makaiwa, the champion of Hawaii, who showed them all how it was out on the Pacific by firing an eight-under-par 68-66—134 at the Waialae Country Club in Honolulu yesterday.

So the members of the America's Cup teams of the United States, Canada and Mexico, all of whom were exempt from qualifying, will have something to look forward to when they meet Makaiwa. The United States team includes such worthies as defending champion Billy Maxwell, British Amateur champion Harvie Ward and former British titleholder, Frank Stranahan.

Tommy Goodwin, whose 137 led the strong contingent in White Plains, was No. 3 in the qualifying.

Tommy Goodwin, Rye, 137
Don Cherry, Garden City, 142
William A. Loock, Jr., New Rochelle, 149

Samsonville Ties In Olive League

Samsonville trounced West Shokan, 8 to 2, behind the three-hit pitching of Pete Keator to knock the ertswhile league leaders out of the unbeaten ranks and create a tie between the teams at two wins and one defeat.

Keator trailed 1-0 at the end of two because of Bob Whispell's homer but Buddy Eckert, West Shokan pitcher, was hit hard after that inning and Samsonville scored in the next five times at bat.

Lilja, the Samsonville first sacker, stroked three singles in four trips to the plate, with Keator and C. Quick each collecting two safeties.

Hen Mothers Puppies

Koomo, Ind., Aug. 6 (AP)—Since Susie was something less than affectionate as a mother, something had to be done about her nine English Shepherd pups. So it was Biddy, a friendly hen, that moved into the doghouse to warm the pups under her wings. Susie came around only at feeding time. Last week Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Vogley forced a separation—the pups, three weeks old, were playfully chewing on Biddy's legs and biting out her tail feathers. Biddy went on a hunger strike. The Vogleys relented today and re-united them.

Dodger Stars Map Busy Road Schedule

The Brooklyn Dodgers' "Stars of Tomorrow" a wealth of high school and college talent that will make an appearance in Kingston on Aug. 20 has an extensive exhibition schedule lined up along the Eastern seaboard.

Composed of 16 players between the ages of 17 and 21 players who survived tryouts involving more than 425 youngsters from New Jersey, Long Island, Westchester and all of New York city, the 1952 edition of "Stars of Tomorrow" is rated the strongest in the long history of the club.

The players were selected by four Dodger scouts—Alex Campanis, Art Dede, Buck Lai, the Hawaiian and A. B. "Turk" Karam, who is well known in Kingston.

The team opened its tour in Pittsfield on Monday and played in Glens Falls Tuesday and Amsterdam yesterday. They are scheduled in Watertown on Aug. 7 and 8.

After this trip, the "Stars of Tomorrow" return to Ebbets Field for a brief respite, resuming activities on Aug. 11 for games in Lancaster, Pa.; York, Pa.; Trenton and Somerville, N. J., Washington, Baltimore and Yonkers, before reaching municipal stadium here on Aug. 20.

A one-day Dodger tryout camp will be conducted by Art Dede and Bruck Lai at the stadium on Aug. 20, with the baseball game that night.

The Kingston club will be a combination of American Legion Junior players and other area talent within the age limit.

Two Score Aces In World-Telly

Elmsford, Aug. 6 (AP)—The odds were nearly 12,000 to 1 that nobody would score an ace in the New York World-Telegram and Sun's annual hole-in-one golf tournament. The odds on two aces in the same day? No one figured that out.

But two did accomplish the feat yesterday on the Knollwood Country Club's 125-yard 19th hole. Stockbroker Ernest Grauer of Yonkers, N. Y., did it first, thanks to a piece of luck. His ball hit a fence 12 feet beyond the cup and rebounded into the hole. Ralph Muranelli of New York did his legitimately. His ball landed in the cup on the fly.

In previous 18 years of the tourney some 14,320 golfers made only six holes-in-one. A field of 228 competed yesterday.

Three Kingstonians — Burt Haver, James A. Dwyer and Charles J. Tiano—competed yesterday without much luck. Dwyer reached the green twice, while Haver and Tiano made it with one each. All four balls were outside the 10-foot circle.

Yesterday's Stars

(By The Associated Press)

Batting — George Wilson and Bob Elliott, Giants, hit pinch home runs to keep alive New York hopes and make possible eventual 7-6 victory in 15 innings.

Pitching — Bobby Shantz, A's, became first major leaguer to win 20 games this year by stopping Boston, 5-3.

By JACK HAND
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Even Bobby Shantz's 20th win for the Philadelphia A's takes a back seat today to the "morning after" gossip about the 15-inning thriller between the Dodgers and Giants.

Little Bobby picked a tough night to cop his 20th. It seemed everybody was gunning for a headline. Rogers Hornsby was making his bow as Cincinnati manager with a 4-0 win over Chicago. The New York Yankees were meeting their old mate, Spec Shea, for the first time since he was traded to Washington, and nipped him 3-2 in a game halted by rain after seven innings.

And then the Giants and Dodgers, favorite sparring partners for years, had to hook up in a five-hour struggle that lasted well into the wee small hours. Don Mueller finally broke it up with an infield chopper that scored rookie Jim Rhodes all the way from second base for a 7-6 win.

Mueller's infield hit scoring Rhodes while pitcher Chris Van Cuyk threw late to first base, slashed the Dodgers' lead to 5½ games in the opener of a "big" series. Incidentally, it was Mueller's first hit in his last 17 at bats.

The game seemed won half a dozen times. Gil Hodges' grand slam homer in the sixth broke a 0-0 tie and gave Billy Loes a 4-0 edge over Jim Hearn. But the Giants ended Loes' no-hit dreams and scored three in the sixth and tied it in the seventh on George Wilson's pinch homer—his first of the season.

Fantastic Finish

Andy Pafko's 14th homer in the 14th snapped the tie but Bob Elliott hit a pinch homer with two out in the Giants' half to keep the fantastic game alive at 5-5.

Pafko's long fly drove home Pee Wee Reese from third to send the Dodgers out on top in the 15th but the Giants came back to tie on Bobby Thomson's run-scoring single and win on Mueller's flukey hit.

With two out Rhodes simply kept on running and scored standing up while Van Cuyk threw to first trying to get Mueller.

Getting back to Shantz, the wee lefty became the earliest 20-game winner of the majors since 1946. That was the year Hal Newhouser made the grade July 27 and Bobby Feller, en route to a new strikeout record, hit No. 20 on July 31.

Shantz Sizzling

In beating Boston, 5-3, Shantz had to contend with both rain and Red Sox. A storm held up play for one hour and 11 minutes in the first. Home runs by Sam White and Hoot Evers gave Boston its only earned runs in its first look at Shantz this season. Bobby's earned run average now is 1.55 for 21 complete games in 23 starts. His 20-3 mark is best in the league.

The Yanks didn't exactly decapitate Shea, although Irv Noren, who came to New York in the oft-criticized deal involving Shea and Jackie Jensen, collected three of the six hits off him. Noren's triple and Phil Rizzuto's outfield fly won the game in the fifth after the Senators tied the score on Allie Reynolds in the fourth.

Cleveland dropped four full games behind the Yanks, splitting a twilight-night doubleheader with Chicago. Bob Lemon allowed only four hits in winning the opener, 6-0, his 13th victory. Larry Doby drove in four of the runs to help wreck Lou Kretlow's string of 22 scoreless innings.

Rivera Homers

Jim Rivera's first-inning homer and a five-run outburst in the second were enough to give Chicago's Saul Rogovin the win over Mike Garcia in the second game, 6-3. Neither was around at the finish.

Bob Cain hit the win circle for the first time since June 27 as St. Louis knocked off Detroit, 5-1, with Bobby Young driving in four runs.

Del Rice's fly ball with the bases loaded in the 12th scored Solly Hemus for the St. Louis Cards' 4-3 nod over Pittsburgh.

Slo-Mo-Shun IV, also owned by Stanley Sayres, of Seattle, qualified with average speed of 93.023 miles an hour. Rainmakers Put On Stand-by Basis

Hartford, Conn., Aug. 6 (AP)—Connecticut farmers who subscribed $8,300 to hire rainmakers, last night asked the moisture producers to stand by until results of their efforts could be assayed.

The rainmakers started operations shortly after midnight Monday and due either to their silver iodide bombardment of the clouds or nature itself, the state's dust-dry tobacco fields and vegetable gardens were showered with up to 1.5 inches of rain yesterday.

Less than 18 hours after the rainmakers started operations in the fringe of the Connecticut valley a heavy downpour hit the western boundary of the state. Two hours later a series of storms erupted over the Connecticut valley, target for the Wallace E. Howell Associates of Cambridge, Mass., the rainmakers.

Last night the Disaster Relief and Research Administration, Inc., an organization of farmers and tobacco growers put the rainmakers on a stand-by basis.

They apparently had decided that they had enough rain for the present. The rain stimulators refused to make any claims, however. Emil Hansling, sales representative of the Howell firm said the results of a single day couldn't give conclusive proof.

Bus Crashes to Ravine, Driver Lives to Tell

The bus, loaded with Hindu worshippers, was going through the jungle in Hyderabad State last week to the Hindu Festival of Magpanchani, a festival in which snakes play a part. Among the travelers were several snake charmers whose baskets of king cobras were tied to the roof of the bus.

As the bus jolted along, the basket lids came loose and the snakes escaped. Some of the reptiles appeared on the windshield and others crawled in with the driver.

The snakes had had their poison apparatus removed, but the driver panicked and lost control. The bus went off the road and fell into a chasm.

You always want a second look

How many times a day do you take a second look at something? If you have a chance—you do it every time something new comes along.

When your team wins, by skill or weird luck, it isn't enough to see it pictured—to hear it told—just once. You take a second look . . . in your newspaper. It's the only sports medium that gives you a chance to gloat and mastermind to your heart's content.

Whenever a politician, or a labor leader, or an act of God changes the traffic light for your business, you take a second look . . . at your newspaper. It's the only news medium that gives you a chance for quick complete re-evaluation.

When you want a house, or refrigerator, or television set, you look in your newspaper . . . at A's ad, then B's and C's, then back to A's. You take a second look. And your newspaper is the only advertising medium that gives you a chance to shop and compare, and see what's for sale here and now.

Just as you read the paper now, your customers and prospects read the paper too—at the time they choose, for as long as they choose—for the advertising as well as for news or for fun.

• When your selling is backed by newspaper advertising, your story has a chance to reach almost everybody. Not just comedy fans, or mystery fans, or sports fans . . . but everybody.

Only the newspaper is first with the most news . . . first with the most people . . . first with the most advertisers!

Yesterday's Stars

(By The Associated Press)

Batting — George Wilson and Bob Elliott, Giants, hit pinch home runs to keep alive New York hopes and make possible eventual 7-6 victory in 15 innings.

Pitching — Bobby Shantz, A's, became first major leaguer to win 20 games this year by stopping Boston, 5-3.

By JACK HAND
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Even Bobby Shantz's 20th win for the Philadelphia A's takes a back seat today to the "morning after" gossip about the 15-inning thriller between the Dodgers and Giants.

Little Bobby picked a tough night to cop his 20th. It seemed everybody was gunning for a headline. Rogers Hornsby was making his bow as Cincinnati manager with a 4-0 win over Chicago. The New York Yankees were meeting their old mate, Spec Shea, for the first time since he was traded to Washington, and nipped him 3-2 in a game halted by rain after seven innings.

And then the Giants and Dodgers, favorite sparring partners for years, had to hook up in a five-hour struggle that lasted well into the wee small hours. Don Mueller finally broke it up with an infield chopper that scored rookie Jim Rhodes all the way from second base for a 7-6 win.

Mueller's infield hit scoring Rhodes while pitcher Chris Van Cuyk threw late to first base, slashed the Dodgers' lead to 5½ games in the opener of a "big" series. Incidentally, it was Mueller's first hit in his last 17 at bats.

The game seemed won half a dozen times. Gil Hodges' grand slam homer in the sixth broke a 0-0 tie and gave Billy Loes a 4-0 edge over Jim Hearn. But the Giants ended Loes' no-hit dreams and scored three in the sixth and tied it in the seventh on George Wilson's pinch homer—his first of the season.

Fantastic Finish

Andy Pafko's 14th homer in the 14th snapped the tie but Bob Elliott hit a pinch homer with two out in the Giants' half to keep the fantastic game alive at 5-5.

Pafko's long fly drove home Pee Wee Reese from third to send the Dodgers out on top in the 15th but the Giants came back to tie on Bobby Thomson's run-scoring single and win on Mueller's flukey hit.

With two out Rhodes simply kept on running and scored standing up while Van Cuyk threw to first trying to get Mueller.

Getting back to Shantz, the wee lefty became the earliest 20-game winner of the majors since 1946. That was the year Hal Newhouser made the grade July 27 and Bobby Feller, en route to a new strikeout record, hit No. 20 on July 31.

Shantz Sizzling

In beating Boston, 5-3, Shantz had to contend with both rain and Red Sox. A storm held up play for one hour and 11 minutes in the first. Home runs by Sam White and Hoot Evers gave Boston its only earned runs in its first look at Shantz this season. Bobby's earned run average now is 1.55 for 21 complete games in 23 starts. His 20-3 mark is best in the league.

The Yanks didn't exactly decapitate Shea, although Irv Noren, who came to New York in the oft-criticized deal involving Shea and Jackie Jensen, collected three of the six hits off him. Noren's triple and Phil Rizzuto's outfield fly won the game in the fifth after the Senators tied the score on Allie Reynolds in the fourth.

Cleveland dropped four full games behind the Yanks, splitting a twilight-night doubleheader with Chicago. Bob Lemon allowed only four hits in winning the opener, 6-0, his 13th victory. Larry Doby drove in four of the runs to help wreck Lou Kretlow's string of 22 scoreless innings.

Rivera Homers

Jim Rivera's first-inning homer and a five-run outburst in the second were enough to give Chicago's Saul Rogovin the win over Mike Garcia in the second game, 6-3. Neither was around at the finish.

Bob Cain hit the win circle for the first time since June 27 as St. Louis knocked off Detroit, 5-1, with Bobby Young driving in four runs.

Kenny Raffensberger brightened Hornsby's debut at Cincinnati with a seven-hit shutout over the Cubs. Ted Kluszewski's two-run triple in the fourth was enough to win.

Bus Crashes to Ravine, Driver Lives to Tell

Bombay, India, Aug. 6 (AP)—Newspapers told today how 24 persons were killed in a bus accident caused by snakes on the loose.

The bus, loaded with Hindu worshippers, was going through the jungle in Hyderabad State last week to the Hindu Festival of Magpanchani, a festival in which snakes play a part. Among the travelers were several snake charmers whose baskets of king cobras were tied to the roof of the bus.

As the bus jolted along, the basket lids came loose and the snakes escaped. Some of the reptiles appeared on the windshield and others crawled in with the driver.

The snakes had had their poison apparatus removed, but the driver panicked and lost control. The bus went off the road and fell into a chasm.

You always want a second look

How many times a day do you take a second look at something? If you have a chance—you do it every time something new comes along.

When your team wins, by skill or weird luck, it isn't enough to see it pictured—to hear it told—just once. You take a second look . . . in your newspaper. It's the only sports medium that gives you a chance to gloat and mastermind to your heart's content.

Whenever a politician, or a labor leader, or an act of God changes the traffic light for your business, you take a second look . . . at your newspaper. It's the only news medium that gives you a chance for quick complete re-evaluation.

When you want a house, or refrigerator, or television set, you look in your newspaper . . . at A's ad, then B's and C's, then back to A's. You take a second look. And your newspaper is the only advertising medium that gives you a chance to shop and compare, and see what's for sale here and now.

Everybody wants a chance for a second look—on the things that interest him most. That's why practically everybody reads the newspaper—every day.

Just as you read the paper now, your customers and prospects read the paper too—at the time they choose, for as long as they choose—for the advertising as well as for news or for fun.

• When your selling is backed by newspaper advertising, your story has a chance to reach almost everybody. Not just comedy fans, or mystery fans, or sports fans . . . but everybody.

That's why advertisers today invest far more of their money in newspapers than in any other form of advertising.

Only the newspaper is first with the most news . . . first with the most people . . . first with the most advertisers!

Capital Radar Screens Register Saucer fleet

Washington, Aug. 6 (Wednesday) (AP)—The heaviest concentration of unidentified objects yet observed in the skies here—a veritable fleet of flying saucers—moved across radar screens early today.

A spokesman at Andrews Air Force Base said the blips were observed late last night and early today still moving slowly and steadily across the screens.

Planes from Andrews and Bolling air bases, plus several civilian aircraft, were directed by radio to intercept the objects. They reported they were unable to see anything, although some planes climbed 15,000 feet before turning back because of bad weather.

Radar operators said the objects were moving at about 60 miles an hour from west to east.

One experienced radar operator, insisting they were "not seeing spots before our eyes," said today's incident was "the most puzzling phenomenon we have ever observed."

14 Red Leaders Seek Reversal of Their Conviction

Los Angeles, Aug. 6 (AP)—Found guilty of plotting to advocate violent overthrow of the government, 14 California Communist leaders go back to court today in an effort to reverse their conviction.

They were convicted on a federal indictment yesterday after a six-month trial, longest in local Federal Court history. Trial and conviction of 11 Communists on similar charges in New York city in 1949 required nine months.

Defense lawyers said they would appeal.

Convicted were Mrs. Oleta O'Connor Yates, 43, San Francisco, Northern California party secretary; William Schneiderman, 46, San Francisco, former state party chairman; Philip M. Connelly, 48; Dorothy Rosenblum Healey, 37, Connelly's wife; Henry Steinberg, 39; Mrs. Rose Chernin Kusnitz, 49; Frank Carlson, 40; Frank E. Spector, 56, and Ben Dobbs, 41, all of Los Angeles, Mrs. Loretta Starvus Stack, 40; Al Richmond, 39; Ernest Otto Fox, 47; Carl Rude Lambert, 55, all of San Francisco; and Albert Jason Lima, 45, Okland.

Delays Sentencing

U. S. Judge William C. Mathes delayed sentencing until after he hears arguments on defense motions for a directed verdict of acquittal.

Maximum sentence is five years' imprisonment and $10,000 fine.

Only one defendant took the stand during the long trial. That was Mrs. Yates, who refused to answer a number of questiñes and was cited for contempt of court on 15 counts, 11 criminal and four civil.

Most of the questions she refused to answer related to party affiliations of various persons. She told the court she was willing to answer any questions about her own activities but would "refuse to be a government informer." Judge Mathes said he would impose sentence on her contempt citations later.

A defense request that the defendants be allowed to remain at liberty on the present bail, ranging from $5,000 to $10,000, pending sentencing was denied and the 14 were ordered to jail.

Bard Plans Series

Annandale-on-Hudson—The foreign students of the Bard College Orientation Center are planning a series of lectures and panel discussions during their stay on the campus for the purpose of discussing major problems of their respective countries. The first of this interesting series will be a panel discussion on "India in Transition" to be held on Monday evening, August 11, at 8 p. m. in Bard Hall. The public is invited.

Have Paris to Selves

Paris, Aug. 5 (AP)—The tourists have Paris almost to themselves today. From July 24 to Aug. 4, the nationalized railway system said, 1,637,000 Frenchmen left the capital by rail alone in the usual mass vacation exodus. Nearly 600 extra trains were used.

Capital Radar Screens Register Saucer fleet

Washington, Aug. 6 (Wednesday) (AP)—The heaviest concentration of unidentified objects yet observed in the skies here—a veritable fleet of flying saucers—moved across radar screens early today.

A spokesman at Andrews Air Force Base said the blips were observed late last night and early today still moving slowly and steadily across the screens.

Planes from Andrews and Bolling air bases, plus several civilian aircraft, were directed by radio to intercept the objects. They reported they were unable to see anything, although some planes climbed 15,000 feet before turning back because of bad weather.

Radar operators said the objects were moving at about 60 miles an hour from west to east.

One experienced radar operator, insisting they were "not seeing spots before our eyes," said today's incident was "the most puzzling phenomenon we have ever observed."

14 Red Leaders Seek Reversal of Their Conviction

Los Angeles, Aug. 6 (AP)—Found guilty of plotting to advocate violent overthrow of the government, 14 California Communist leaders go back to court today in an effort to reverse their conviction.

They were convicted on a federal indictment yesterday after a six-month trial, longest in local Federal Court history. Trial and conviction of 11 Communists on similar charges in New York city in 1949 required nine months.

Defense lawyers said they would appeal.

Convicted were Mrs. Oleta O'Connor Yates, 43, San Francisco, Northern California party secretary; William Schneiderman, 46, San Francisco, former state party chairman; Philip M. Connelly, 48; Dorothy Rosenblum Healey, 37, Connelly's wife; Henry Steinberg, 39; Mrs. Rose Chernin Kusnitz, 49; Frank Carlson, 40; Frank E. Spector, 56, and Ben Dobbs, 41, all of Los Angeles, Mrs. Loretta Starvus Stack, 40; Al Richmond, 39; Ernest Otto Fox, 47; Carl Rude Lambert, 55, all of San Francisco; and Albert Jason Lima, 45, Okland.

Delays Sentencing

U. S. Judge William C. Mathes delayed sentencing until after he hears arguments on defense motions for a directed verdict of acquittal.

Maximum sentence is five years' imprisonment and $10,000 fine.

Only one defendant took the stand during the long trial. That was Mrs. Yates, who refused to answer a number of questines and was cited for contempt of court on 15 counts, 11 criminal and four civil.

Most of the questions she refused to answer related to party affiliations of various persons. She told the court she was willing to answer any questions about her own activities but would "refuse to be a government informer." Judge Mathes said he would impose sentence on her contempt citations later.

A defense request that the defendants be allowed to remain at liberty on the present bail, ranging from $5,000 to $10,000, pending sentencing was denied and the 14 were ordered to jail.

Bard Plans Series

The first of this interesting series will be a panel discussion on "India in Transition" to be held on Monday evening, August 11, at 8 p. m. in Bard Hall. The public is invited.

Have Paris to Selves

Paris, Aug. 5 (AP)—The tourists have Paris almost to themselves today. From July 24 to Aug. 4, the nationalized railway system said, 1,637,000 Frenchmen left the capital by rail alone in the usual mass vacation exodus. Nearly 600 extra trains were used.

Animated Display of Electric Power

This animated display in the Central Hudson office on Broadway shows the proposed development of additional power from the Niagara river by five New York state utilities. By means of earphones persons may hear the story of the electric power development while viewing the mechanics of the operation.

Company Gives Its Side of Niagara River Development

An animated display depicting the proposed construction of facilities to develop additional power from the Niagara river is attracting the attention of customers in the Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corporation office on Broadway. The exhibit shows power plant and channel details as proposed by five New York state utilities, one of which is Central Hudson.

By means of a push-button legend and moving lights the observer is able to follow the flow of water from the Niagara river through the canals and into the penstocks where 1,132,000 additional kilowatts of electric power will be generated. By means of earphones, persons may hear the story of development of the additional electric power by the five utilities while viewing the mechanics of the operation.

Central Hudson explained the purpose of the exhibit is to carry the five companies' story to the public on how they propose to construct and operate the Niagara project without taxpayers' funds in opposition to federal and state plans to spend $350,000,000 of the taxpayers' money on the project.

The display will be in the Kingston Central Hudson office until August 21.

Heart Attack Fatal To Toronto Publisher

Toronto, Aug. 6 (AP)—George McCullagh, publisher of the Toronto Globe and Mail, Canada's largest morning newspaper, and the Toronto Telegram, died unexpectedly last night of a heart attack. He was 47.

A financial wizard who reportedly made millions on the Toronto Stock Exchange, McCullagh began his newspaper career as a youth selling subscriptions to the old Toronto Globe in western Ontario.

He was so successful he was brought to Toronto to work in the paper's subscription department but soon transferred to the editorial staff as a financial writer.

McCullagh left newspapering for eight years to amass a fortune on the Toronto Stock Exchange. Then, backed by the late William H. Wright, a mining millionaire, McCullagh bought his old newspaper, the Globe, on Oct. 14, 1936. Five weeks later he purchased the larger Toronto Mail and Empire and merged it with the Globe.

In 1948, McCullagh paid $3,610,000 for the Toronto Evening Telegram and became publisher of two of the city's three daily newspapers.

Uncle Sam Employs 112,999 More Workers

Washington, Aug. 6 (AP)—Uncle Sam wound up the fiscal year on June 30 with 112,999 more civilian workers on the payroll than when the year started.

The Senate-House committee on reduction of non-essential federal expenditures reported the increase without comment. The civilian labor force, it said, numbered 2,596,690 at the year's end.

The great bulk of the increase, the report said, was in the civilian payrolls of the military establishment. The armed forces' civilian labor list, it said, rose 101,571 in the year to a total of 1,337,172.

Walrad Funeral Aug. 7

New York, Aug. 6 (AP)—Funeral services will be held Thursday for John Robert Walrad, 50, a civil engineer in the topographical bureau of the Queens borough president's office. He died Sunday of cancer at Memorial Hospital. A native of Herkimer, N. Y., Walrad was on the engineering staff of the borough president's office for 24 years. Before that he worked for the city board of transportation. Funeral services will be held at St. Helena's Roman Catholic Church in the Bronx with burial in St. Raymond's Cemetery.

Primary Day Rule On Liquor Given

Chairman John F. O'Connell of the New York State Liquor Authority announced today the prohibited hours for the sale of liquor, wine and beer throughout the state on Primary Day, Tuesday, August 19.

Sales are prohibited during the hours that the polls are open. In Ulster county, these hours are from 12 noon until 9 p. m.

The Alcoholic Beverage Control Law ban on sales during primary voting hours applies to all alcoholic beverages for on-premises consumption and to the sale of liquor or wine for off-premises consumption.

In Ulster county, the local ABC Board announced, grocery stores and drug stores licensed to sell beer at retail for off-premises consumption may continue to do so during Primary Day. The law provides that grocery store sales of beer for off-premises consumption are prohibited only in those counties where the local ABC Board has restricted its sale on Primary Day, and the Ulster County ABC Board has not taken such action.

Plans Completed For County Fair

Most of the final detail plans for the Ulster County Fair at Forsyth Park scheduled August 20 and 21, completed at a meeting of the Ulster County Agricultural Society Monday night. Early indications are that the fair will have more open class entries and more exhibits than any previous fair.

The unusual feature of having no admission charge will be continued. This is the only recognized county fair at which admission is free and the officers extend a very cordial invitation to everyone to attend.

Judging will start at 10 a. m. Wednesday, August 20, in all departments, except horses. All cattle will be judged Wednesday and the horse judging will start at 1 p. m. Thursday, August 21.

Local 215 of the Musicians Union wil provide free music for dancing on the tennis courts in Forsyth Park, Wednesday night, August 20. The entire fair will be open Wednesday night to 10 p. m. and close at 5 p. m. Thursday, August 21.

Entries for the $8,000 in cash awards close Saturday, August 16. This allows ample time to secure a premium list and entry blanks. Premium lists may be obtained at the Farm Bureau Office at 74 John street.

A limited number of commercial spaces are available. Information about them may be obtained from Albert Kurdt at the office of the Kingston Chamber of Commerce in the Governor Clinton Hotel. All inquires regarding open class entries should be made at the Farm Bureau Office. Entries in the homemaking department are handled by the Home Bureau, and 4-H Club entries are made at the 4-H Club Office.

Firm Says Carpet Union Refuses Final Offer

Amsterdam, N. Y., Aug. 6 (AP)—The Bigelow-Sanford Carpet Company says the CIO textile workers rejected the firm's final offer for settlement of the nine-week-old strike here.

The company said yesterday the offer included an across-the-board pay increase of 9 cents an hour, adjustments up to 15 cents in the lower-paid jobs and other benefits similar to those granted Friday in settlement of a strike against the Alexander Smith Carpet Plant in Yonkers.

FLAVOR that chill can't kill

HOW COLD DO YOU LIKE YOUR BEER? Good and cold, if you're like most people. A recent house-to-house refrigerator check shows that beer is usually served at temperatures ranging from 35° to 42° Fahrenheit.

Ballantine is deep-brewed for flavor

When the weatherman says "Hot!" you say, "Ballantine Beer!"

Here's beer you can chill to your heart's content—serve right off the ice!

Ballantine brews for flavor. For lightness; yes! For dryness, of course. But first, last, and always, Ballantine brews for flavor . . . using Nature's finest barley malts, the very choicest hops, and yeast of long and honorable pedigree. The result: fine, full flavor that chill can't kill!

Pour yourself a glass—good and cold—from a bottle or can right off the ice—and taste!

Animated Display of Electric Power

This animated display in the Central Hudson office on Broadway shows the proposed development of additional power from the Niagara river by five New York state utilities. By means of earphones persons may hear the story of the electric power development while viewing the mechanics of the operation.

Company Gives Its Side of Niagara River Development

An animated display depicting the proposed construction of facilities to develop additional power from the Niagara river is attracting the attention of customers in the Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corporation office on Broadway. The exhibit shows power plant and channel details as proposed by five New York state utilities, one of which is Central Hudson.

By means of a push-button legend and moving lights the observer is able to follow the flow of water from the Niagara river through the canals and into the penstocks where 1,132,000 additional kilowatts of electric power will be generated. By means of earphones, persons may hear the story of development of the additional electric power by the five utilities while viewing the mechanics of the operation.

Central Hudson explained the purpose of the exhibit is to carry the five companies' story to the public on how they propose to construct and operate the Niagara project without taxpayers' funds in opposition to federal and state plans to spend $350,000,000 of the taxpayers' money on the project.

The display will be in the Kingston Central Hudson office until August 21.

Heart Attack Fatal To Toronto Publisher

Toronto, Aug. 6 (AP)—George McCullagh, publisher of the Toronto Globe and Mail, Canada's largest morning newspaper, and the Toronto Telegram, died unexpectedly last night of a heart attack. He was 47.

A financial wizard who reportedly made millions on the Toronto Stock Exchange, McCullagh began his newspaper career as a youth selling subscriptions to the old Toronto Globe in western Ontario.

He was so successful he was brought to Toronto to work in the paper's subscription department but soon transferred to the editorial staff as a financial writer.

McCullagh left newspapering for eight years to amass a fortune on the Toronto Stock Exchange. Then, backed by the late William H. Wright, a mining millionaire, McCullagh bought his old newspaper, the Globe, on Oct. 14, 1936. Five weeks later he purchased the larger Toronto Mail and Empire and merged it with the Globe.

In 1948, McCullagh paid $3,610,000 for the Toronto Evening Telegram and became publisher of two of the city's three daily newspapers.

Uncle Sam Employs 112,999 More Workers

Washington, Aug. 6 (AP)—Uncle Sam wound up the fiscal year on June 30 with 112,999 more civilian workers on the payroll than when the year started.

The Senate-House committee on reduction of non-essential federal expenditures reported the increase without comment. The civilian labor force, it said, numbered 2,596,690 at the year's end.

The great bulk of the increase, the report said, was in the civilian payrolls of the military establishment. The armed forces' civilian labor list, it said, rose 101,571 in the year to a total of 1,337,172.

He died Sunday of cancer at Memorial Hospital. A native of Herkimer, N. Y., Walrad was on the engineering staff of the borough president's office for 24 years. Before that he worked for the city board of transportation. Funeral services will be held at St. Helena's Roman Catholic Church in the Bronx with burial in St. Raymond's Cemetery.

Primary Day Rule On Liquor Given

Chairman John F. O'Connell of the New York State Liquor Authority announced today the prohibited hours for the sale of liquor, wine and beer throughout the state on Primary Day, Tuesday, August 19.

Sales are prohibited during the hours that the polls are open. In Ulster county, these hours are from 12 noon until 9 p. m.

The Alcoholic Beverage Control Law ban on sales during primary voting hours applies to all alcoholic beverages for on-premises consumption and to the sale of liquor or wine for off-premises consumption.

In Ulster county, the local ABC Board announced, grocery stores and drug stores licensed to sell beer at retail for off-premises consumption may continue to do so during Primary Day. The law provides that grocery store sales of beer for off-premises consumption are prohibited only in those counties where the local ABC Board has restricted its sale on Primary Day, and the Ulster County ABC Board has not taken such action.

Plans Completed For County Fair

Most of the final detail plans for the Ulster County Fair at Forsyth Park scheduled August 20 and 21, completed at a meeting of the Ulster County Agricultural Society Monday night. Early indications are that the fair will have more open class entries and more exhibits than any previous fair.

The unusual feature of having no admission charge will be continued. This is the only recognized county fair at which admission is free and the officers extend a very cordial invitation to everyone to attend.

Judging will start at 10 a. m. Wednesday, August 20, in all departments, except horses. All cattle will be judged Wednesday and the horse judging will start at 1 p. m. Thursday, August 21.

Local 215 of the Musicians Union wil provide free music for dancing on the tennis courts in Forsyth Park, Wednesday night, August 20. The entire fair will be open Wednesday night to 10 p. m. and close at 5 p. m. Thursday, August 21.

Entries for the $8,000 in cash awards close Saturday, August 16. This allows ample time to secure a premium list and entry blanks. Premium lists may be obtained at the Farm Bureau Office at 74 John street.

A limited number of commercial spaces are available. Information about them may be obtained from Albert Kurdt at the office of the Kingston Chamber of Commerce in the Governor Clinton Hotel. All inquires regarding open class entries should be made at the Farm Bureau Office. Entries in the homemaking department are handled by the Home Bureau, and 4-H Club entries are made at the 4-H Club Office.
